The Indian Appropriation Bill Occupies the Day in the House

A SHORT DEBATE. IT FINALLY PASSES

The Jeannette Investigation

Washington, March 18—Secretary Chandler has sent a letter to Representative Cox, chairman of the naval affairs committee strongly opposing a second court of inquiry into the Jeannette arctic expedition [illegible] friends of Jerome Collins had every opportunity before the court of inquiry to ascertain the cause and that the [illegible] opinion the proceeding is highly inexpedient [illegible] in the sacrilege to again tear open the graves [illegible] for the purpose of indecently calling in question to what the court of inquiry considered under the most favorable circumstances [illegible] and which had no influence to bring disaster to the expedition and no part in the general conduct.

General Grant in Washington

Washington, March 18—General Grant is at the [illegible] hotel. He is believed to be greatly benefited [illegible] time since the fall. The General was accompanied by Mrs. Grant, Colonel Fred Grant and Mrs Nellie Sharp of Yankton. They [illegible] about three weeks.

Seeking a Nihilist

[illegible] March 18—The police suspect that [illegible] of nihilists who [illegible] Fifty arrests were made. The hotels have been directed to notify the police the arrival of all strangers.

No Telegram Sent to Sargent.

[illegible], March 18—It is learned at the department of state that no telegram has been sent [illegible] relative to a transfer to another post as reported.

General Mackenzie's Successor

[illegible], March 18—There seems no doubt [illegible] of the Twenty [illegible] infantry [illegible] General Mackenzie as brigadier general.

Other Probabilities.

[illegible], March 18—Southern California gen [illegible] Pacific coast and extreme [illegible] California, light rains.

The Kilbourne-Thompson Suit

[illegible] March 18—The case of Hallet Kilbourne [illegible] sergeant-at-arms John G Thompson [illegible]

Senate.

Washington, March 18

[illegible] was presented by Cullom [illegible] of the [illegible] legislature praying for a bill [illegible] compensation.

[illegible] introduced a bill to authorize the secretary of the navy to offer a reward of $25,000 for the rescue of [illegible] ascertaining the fate of the [illegible] arctic expedition [illegible] a reward in [illegible] inducement [illegible] and for information [illegible]

Davis of the plan suggested by George Kennan, a traveler, when called before the [illegible] to give his views concerning the [illegible] his command.

[illegible] the establishment and temporary [illegible] of summer schools was taken up. It appropriates the first year fifteen millions, for the [illegible] millions for the third year [illegible] and so on for ten years decreasing [illegible] ratably to the common school education. [illegible] The expenditure for each state shall be [illegible] illiteracy.

[illegible] the senate on [illegible] At the [illegible] the senate went into executive session, and soon after adjourned.

House

Washington, March 18

[illegible] introduced by Reagan from the committee [illegible] the construction of [illegible] the Rio Grande at Laredo and Eagle [illegible]

The committee reported the bill [illegible] $155,000 for constructing a vessel for the [illegible] service and a steam launch for [illegible] Referred to committee on [illegible]

[illegible] of the morning hour Townshend [illegible] the House went into committee of the whole [illegible] appropriation bill and declined to [illegible] who wished an opportunity to sub [illegible] to the foreign affairs committee [illegible] Thereupon the [illegible] members of [illegible] sed their forces and attempted [illegible] the motion, but though they made a [illegible] opposition commit [illegible] and the house went into committee of the [illegible] his chair on the bill stated

[illegible] a point of order against the second [illegible] amends the revised statutes so as to [illegible] the mails more than once in four [illegible] and Eaton argued in support of [illegible] Randall and Townshend in opposition, but the chair ruled against the majority [illegible] sustained the point of order

[illegible] to the formal amendment. Aiken [illegible] severely criticised the various features [illegible] declaring it made the most niggardly appropriation [illegible] of any appropriation [illegible] he had [illegible] He was opposed to the proviso limiting [illegible] or mail service [illegible] land grant [illegible] in spite of himself the tongue [illegible] that there was a vicious legislation [illegible] Since the committee had dis [illegible] some hours the great object [illegible] and offered an amendment to [illegible] the very roads he had [illegible] the bill. Though he Aiken did [illegible] anybody with having a job in the bill [illegible] excited suspicion in his mind. That [illegible] which attracted his attention [illegible] $4,000,000 for star routes [illegible] an imaginary appropriation [illegible] was to become of the $120,000 [illegible] covert legislation right there [illegible] committee for making no provision [illegible] facilities and ridiculed the ex [illegible] that it had not been estimated for [illegible] refused to give because the [illegible] and why in the name of com [illegible] subject to a vital what he d [illegible] ask for [illegible] of niggardly legislation which was [illegible] showed conclusively [illegible] thinking man that the purpose of [illegible] get up cheap notoriety for grand [illegible] on the republican side.

[illegible] denied the greatly that there was any [illegible] in the bill and hoped the gentleman [illegible] point on which the committee [illegible] of any member had sought to [illegible] the country

[illegible] offered an amendment extending to [illegible] congress the right to use franked [illegible] in the transaction of official business [illegible] Wills of Kentucky and Randall op [illegible] amendment and Bel [illegible] advocated it [illegible] and those who stood here for economy [illegible] cheers or applause [illegible] of performing a public duty in an [illegible]

[illegible] amendment was lost—61 to 93

[illegible] committee rose and reported the bill to [illegible] The previous question being ordered [illegible] the objection [illegible] the bill which [illegible] as a cheap bill framed by a cheap [illegible] cheap committee upon the cheap [illegible]

[illegible] took the floor to close the debate on the bill. He said he had an opportunity [illegible] conversing with a leading member of [illegible] and he had read it and that it was [illegible] He said [illegible] (Townshend) had exposed the [illegible] by the republican party in the [illegible] was in cutting down appropriations [illegible] himself a republican [illegible] There were [illegible] declined to [illegible] republicans [illegible] went [illegible] since the bill had come [illegible] been brought to the front [illegible] of extravagance [illegible] their sagacity [illegible] upon the bill [illegible] the gentleman from [illegible] has ever been charged [illegible] if ever [illegible] that gentleman [illegible]

[illegible] the words uttered be taken [illegible] charge and [illegible] was always [illegible] charged with such offenses [illegible] with the exception of this [illegible] to be rejected [illegible]

PARTIES AND THE CURRENCY.

Many very remarkable comments have been provoked by the decision of the supreme court of the United States on the legal tender act. Among our Washington specials yesterday was this: "The legal tender decision has produced something like a stampede among the democrats in congress. During the past week three propositions have been presented looking to amendment of the constitution limiting the power of congress to issue paper money." All these propositions emanate from democrats of the hard money variety, who, evidently, are in great fear lest the "fiat" craze may again break out with uncontrollable force in the party. Some of the democratic oracles are extremely bitter against the republicans for putting this temptation before the simple and dishonest classes of the country. Thus, the Louisville Courier-Journal says: "The constitution guaranteed to the people of the United States a complete immunity from unsound currency, at least under the auspices of the federal government, but the republican party has been tampering with these guarantees since it first came into power, and finally it has utterly destroyed them." But we are not informed in what part of the constitution the guarantees referred to may be found. And in view of the fact that during the currency fights from 1866 to 1878 the bulk of the democratic party supported the soft money theories and the bulk of the republican party insisted on placing the currency upon a coin basis, the intimation that the republican party has been all wrong and the democratic party all right on the question seems to lack correspondence with certain pretty well-known facts.

H. W. S.

The silver question is also becoming a subject of much concern. The main support of the act to provide for the coinage of the "short" silver dollar also came from the democratic party. "Suspend the silver coinage" is the general cry from all the business interests of the country and from every section. The boards of trade in Wilmington, N. C., New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, and other cities are responding to this sentiment. The sub-treasury and the New York banks are steadily losing their gold, and if the drain should continue for many weeks our treasury will have to pay silver only, which is legal tender, though the silver dollar is worth from twelve to fifteen cents less than the gold dollar.

If the nation should once drop to a silver standard, it would be years before the treasury would get back to a gold standard. After legal tender notes were made the standard in 1863, it required sixteen years, and prodigious sacrifices on the part of the nation, to come back to the true standard of gold. No one believes that this nation, so great in its resources, so vast in its ability to pay, and so extended in its commercial relations with the whole world, will be content to accept a silver standard, and thus rank itself below England, France, Germany and even Italy, which in April last resumed payment in gold on its currency and on its bonds after a lapse of twenty-two years. At no time did the Italian currency sink more than 15 per cent. below the par of gold, and yet it required a generation to replace its currency on a sound basis.

The United States has coined $160,000,000 of the standard silver dollars—enough for many years to come—and if the coinage is at once suspended it is supposed the stock we have on hand will slowly appreciate in value, even as the silver franc of France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Spain circulates more readily since the nine years' suspension of their coinage.

H. W. SCOTT

A house of representatives, and particularly a democratic house, is a very difficult body to deal with—in order to obtain from it judicious financial legislation. But it is understood that Mr. Hewitt, an influential democrat from the hard money locality of New York, may make an effort soon to get before the house a bill suspending the coinage. He may succeed, as all the well-to-do classes in the democratic party begin to appreciate the peril which threatens the country.

THE SCHOOL DIRECTORSHIP.

The precedents are not altogether in favor of the men who resign office in a huff, and then want to be re-elected. Whether Mr. John Wilson shall be re-elected school director or not, depends entirely on obtainment of the consent of some man of equal character to the use of his name as a candidate against Mr. Wilson. If no such name is presented, then those who do not approve of the expensive management of the present board of directors, and of the methods of instruction pursued in the schools, simply will not vote at all. How much soever they esteem Mr. Wilson as a man and a citizen, they will decline to vote for him for school director; and they are numerous enough to elect over him any man whose character and standing entitle him to public confidence. But it is extremely difficult to induce any one to take a position whose responsibilities are not inconsiderable, and whose duties at times are irksome; and we know not whether anything is being done to bring out a candidate in opposition to Mr. Wilson, or not. It is plain, however, that attention ought to be given to the matter. In the board of directors there ought to be an influence to counteract, in some small degree, at least, the "high pressure" of which so many of our people complain. Unless something be done toward the removal of the grounds of these complaints, a large body of the people will be alienated from the public school system and lose their disposition to support it. Even now it is freely said by not a few that they will neither send their children to the public schools of the city nor allow their property, only in so far as they cannot avoid it, to be within reach of taxation to support them. Unless reasonable complaints be listened to and checks be established upon the tendency of the present system to run into extremes and abuses, one day the people will go too far in pulling the structure down.

The number of persons employed in the house of representatives has increased within ten years more than 43 per cent. In the same period the amounts appropriated for their pay has risen from $211,027 to $308,631. In a recent debate Mr. Cox of North Carolina said: "I am satisfied that we now have men here who are doing nothing, who are filling sinecure positions. I am a member of the committee on the militia. Three months of this session have passed, and the clerk of that committee has been drawing at the rate of from $180 to $186 per month; yet we have never had a meeting of the committee, and I very much doubt if we ever do have. Still, at the end of the year the clerk of that committee will have drawn $1500 and received besides probably an extra month's pay. This is not intended to reflect upon this clerk, who discharges all the duties of his office. It is proper to state that this clerk is also clerk of the committee on mileage, where he is supposed to have performed some labor. I refer to it simply as an example. The same rule prevails in regard to the other committees, to a great extent." If men are employed who are not needed, as this would indicate, they ought to be dismissed.

In New York city within thirty years the expenses for charitable institutions have increased 599 per cent., though the population has grown only 134 per cent., and the suffering seems to increase. The city is paying nearly a quarter of a million dollars annually for a foundling asylum, and homeless and helpless children rapidly increase in number. A single institution has 2800 hundred of them under its care, and yearly receives to its shelter 3 per cent. of all infants born in the metropolis. But with these increasing expenses the city continues to be ruled by ignorant, incapable and corrupt persons.

OUR SOUTHERN NEIGHBOR.

The completion of the Mexican Central railway, which runs through the center of the great table land of Mexico more than 1200 miles from its capital to the "Pass to the North," the natural portal of our frontier, is no common event. The country traversed by the road has a temperate climate, rich iron, tin, silver and gold deposits, and large areas of farming and grazing land which now supports nearly 4,000,000 people, who will be brought into contact with the civilization of the north. The trade between the United States and Mexico will be greatly stimulated. A new outlet will be furnished for our manufactures and we shall receive a great variety of products in return. In speaking of this event as a "new conquest of Mexico" the Boston Advertiser says: "To the Mexican, it means the inspiration and the mechanism of a better life, the development of his resources, the stimulation of agriculture and mining, the opportunity to dispose of his crude material, the encouragement of manufactures, the contact with wider learning. In short, it means that in a generation he will become heir to three centuries of civilization. To the American it means enlarged commerce, the market of a new and unfurnished population, the opportunity to apply the machinery of the nineteenth century to the unexhausted treasures of the sixteenth, and a vast enlargement in the supply of the raw products of a tropical and semi-tropical land. To humanity as a whole, it means amelioration and progress."

With the settlement of the reciprocity treaty, by which the United States shall admit from Mexico the products of agriculture, of mining and of the forests, free of duty, and Mexico shall let in chiefly manufactured articles, both countries will be in a position to improve this new channel of communication and trade. The political condition of Mexico is in a better and more hopeful condition than it has ever been before. The great cause of internal strife has been of late years removed by the absolute divorce of church and state, and the country has now a government which appears well established on the firm principles of civil and religious liberty. This government has given strong evidence of its desire for closer commercial relations with the United States by most liberal concessions to railroad corporations formed in this country, the franchises and subventions thus granted being valued at about $90,000,000. About $30,000,000 of American capital has been invested in railroads in Mexico during the last two years, and about 1800 miles of road have been constructed. The fact that clear-sighted business men are ready to make such large investments shows the confidence which they feel in the peaceful future of the country.

The survey of the Mexican Central line was commenced at the City of Mexico the last of January, 1880, and track laying was commenced September 15, 1880. Hence the main line has been completed in just three years, five months and twenty-two days from the beginning of the track laying. It will not probably be open for traffic much before the middle of April, and the formal opening is set for May 5, which is the national holiday of Mexico.

A STUPID PARTY.

There is something very strange in the refusal of the leaders of the democratic party to recognize the fact that there is a real popular demand for reduced taxation, fewer bounties to corporations and monopolies, and a more economical administration of public affairs. If their convention follows the example of their national committee in refusing to recognize these questions, "it will be a judgment," as the old lady said, if the party holds together until election. The people will not respond to an appeal which is addressed to no higher motive than spoils. Past campaigns make this fact plain. The democrats have been defeated every time while trailing along behind the republicans. The campaign of 1874 was the only one in which they have approached success, and then they had a policy which they were not afraid to enunciate in the platform and a candidate who held them to it. That platform is as sound now as it was then, and it has, besides, the additional strength of the recommendation of a republican tariff commission that the tariff ought to be reduced 20 to 25 per cent. This is substantially what the Morrison bill does. The bill, as modified, makes only three important additions to the free list—coal, salt and lumber. In other respects it is essentially the existing tariff as framed by the protectionists themselves, with a horizontal reduction of 20 per cent., except on liquors and silks. Experience has demonstrated that the reduction made by last year's revision was less than 5 per cent., where the high tariff commission admitted it ought to be 20 to 25 per cent. The Morrison bill does not cut under the commission's figure.

If Mr. Randall and his followers were trying to play into the hands of the republicans, they could not have chosen a more direct method of doing so. There is no demand for two high tariff parties in this country. It is not possible for the democrats to win this election as a party of mere negation. Their failure to discern the signs of the times is the most powerful evidence of their incapacity to administer this government. The reformers are in earnest but they will ask for nothing more than the tariff commission promised as the reasonable need of the country. There is absolutely no reason why the democrats in congress should refuse to grant a reduction such as the commission proposed. If the commissioners meant what they said, and if the senators meant what they said in estimating the reduction made by the revision last winter, there was a grave error in the calculation, which the Morrison bill proposes to correct. If this bill fails, there will be nothing for the democrats to go before the country upon worthy a moment's consideration. This is the issue that now divides the parties, but if the democrats persist in their stupid refusal to see it, the republicans may get on the right side of it first, and teach them another wholesome lesson.

The lower branch of the Massachusetts legislature has refused to submit to the people the proposed constitutional amendment providing for biennial elections and biennial sessions of the legislature. The press of the state has been divided in the discussion of the question, but most of the influential papers favored its submission to the people, and now insist that the movement has only been checked by the professional politicians in both parties, who combined their forces against it, and that the people are bound to bring about the reform in spite of them. This movement is an attempt in another form to restrict the suffrage, which in the large cities is now felt by many to be too general. As it is not possible to prevent the irresponsible men who are controlled by professional politicians and political jobbers from voting, something would be gained if they could be prevented from voting as often as they now do. A general election, as things are now managed, is a very expensive thing for a state. The knowledge that the purchasable voters will be sure to vote whenever there is a chance compels many to make real sacrifice to defeat the vicious element. So far as it is a question of public policy, the woman's suffrage movement derives its chief strength from the confidence people generally have that women will be likely to vote against the bad element, which now threatens the security of good and honest government.

Much attention is paid to cooking in New England and other eastern cities, though the people have advanced far beyond the era of fried steak and boiled coffee, especially coffee with milk boiled in it. The newspapers report the lectures and composition of dishes, and thus much practical information is disseminated. It is becoming more generally recognized that good cooking is not only a matter of comfort or of luxury, but one of actual, sometimes of great, economy. A good soup, which is both a luxury and a nourishment, may be made from meat which is too often wasted. Well cooked meat will be eaten; that which is badly cooked will be very likely in great part discarded. One of the most important considerations is the independence which a knowledge of cooking gives the lady of the house, however rich she may be. The woman who knows how things ought to be done cannot be imposed upon by the servant. When it is understood in the kitchen that the mistress understands housekeeping, the mistress need not be much in the kitchen. The extravagance of Americans in the matter of food is proverbial. It is quite time that it should be recognized that living might be much better, and at the same time cheaper.

The Chicago Herald a few days ago printed an editorial article in which Mr. Edmunds and Mr. Bayard were suggested as the local candidates. The Boston Post makes a suggestion identically similar. It says of Mr. Edmunds that he is the "ablest republican in the senate, and perhaps the ablest in public life," and that "probably the republicans could not do better than to make him their choice." Then after eulogizing Mr. Bayard, the Post goes on to say: "We can hardly imagine a better way out of the maze of possibilities for either party than the nomination of Mr. Edmunds and Mr. Bayard. The campaign would be a clean one, or as clean as political campaigns can be expected to be made, and the distinctive principles of the two parties would thus have a better chance in newspaper and platform discussion."

Judge Locke of the United States district court of Florida seems bound to make a living if his salary is not as large as railroad corporations pay their lawyers. For the last twelve years has he been presiding over a federal court at a salary of $3500 a year, and he has also been dealing in leaf tobacco and without a United States license, running a wrecking schooner and himself decreeing her salvage, operating as a note shaver and usurer and making occasional incursions into politics and securing the election of his favorites by bribery and intimidation. At least he is accused of doing all these things, and a petition for his impeachment has been presented to the house of representatives.

Thomas Nast has returned to Harper's Weekly. In a political cartoon he introduces at once the republican white elephant and himself. The Weekly itself says that "it is significant that Mr. Nast's first contribution to the Weekly on resuming his pencil should be in the cause of charity—an appeal to the hearts of his countrymen on behalf of the sufferers by the great floods and storms which have devastated the west and south." This refers to a picture of the Ohio flood in the previous issue.

Oregon and Transcontinental.

Boston Post, March 10.

The removal of the Oregon and Transcontinental offices to Boston on Saturday last was attended with a good deal of mystery and some sensational details. At Saturday's meeting of the executive committee the proposed action against the company were discussed, and it was hurriedly agreed, in view of legal proceedings, to remove the company's headquarters, President Endicott having more faith in the courts in Massachusetts than in New York. In obedience to a resolution of the executive committee, several officials went to the company's office, and in the absence of the secretary, removed the books and expressed them to Boston. A. J. Thomas, the executive manager of the company, received a peremptory order from President Endicott, to report at Boston, but he preferred to resign. It is understood that the relations of the company to the Oregon Navigation will be more intimate than before, but that the Northern Pacific will cut loose if possible from both companies. President Endicott will resign from the Oregon and Transcontinental as soon as a successor can be agreed on. He took the office reluctantly, and is tired of it.

DEMORALIZING THE FORCE.—In spite of Gerdes' denial that he is the real chief of police and that he has a cinch on the nominal chief which enables him to manage that official as he pleases, every one who has any knowledge of the workings of the police force is certain that Gerdes' modesty in this case has interfered with his truthfulness. The fact is Gerdes is making a desperate effort to completely revolutionize the police force by securing the dismissal of every sober decent man from it and supplying their places by tools of the whisky ring. To this end are all the most ... Sam Wolf, the deputy chief, and others of the ring in the office of Gerdes. To this end did Gerdes and the deputy chief call upon the mayor to endeavor to induce him to dismiss eight good men who it was claimed were demoralizing the force. To this end did Sam Wolf visit a member of the council and with his characteristic impudence offer suggestions as to remodeling the force. So certain are the ring of carrying their point that Big Henry, a bottle washer at Gerdes' wholesale dive, has already secured a policeman's uniform in anticipation of his appointment and sworn duty to-night. Another of the favored ones who expects to be promoted to-night is Big Jol... Patton, a kindred friend of Gerdes ... the same ... are ... the case of Bill ... who through ... blisters and ... fell on the way ... will probably ... Gerdes ... And then the case of ... deputy ... for dismissing Policeman Johnson without cause will demand attention.

A DESPERATE ROUGH.—About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon Paddy McCann, one of the toughest toughs that ever disgraced this section, got into a row at Albina. Deputy Sheriff Nelson started after him and after running him nearly an hour ... him in a dwelling back of town. McCann is a very powerful man, and the deputy sheriff is about a match for him. Nelson undertook to arrest him and a hot encounter followed, in which the officer's little finger on his right hand was broken. McCann then seized a butcher knife and started for Nelson. At this juncture young Hackett handed a revolver to Nelson, who covered the thug. He threw up his hands, dropped the knife and allowed himself to be taken to Justice Hackett's office. Here he was handcuffed and allowed the liberty of the court room. In a minute he was out of doors and went on a dead run to the gravel pit, half a mile distant, some of his fellow thugs interfering with the movements of the officers in pursuit. At the pit he was recaptured, bound with ropes, tied down to a wagon and hauled to the county jail. While being unloaded from the wagon he kicked up another row, but was checked by Sheriff Sears personally, whose authority he said he was willing to recognize. He asked the privilege, however, of whipping one of the men who brought him in. This is McCann's sixth term in the county jail. He is recognized by the police and constabulary as a desperate and highly dangerous man and probably the next time he attacks an officer with a deadly weapon he will not throw up his hands from choice.

BISHOP MORRIS RETURNS.—Monday the Right Reverend B. Wistar Morris, Bishop of Oregon, accompanied by his wife, arrived home after six months absence. Miss Rodney and Miss Morris, who went east with him, will remain there until summer. To an OREGONIAN reporter who called on him last night Bishop Morris said that he had been working hard in the missionary service ever since the convention adjourned, and that he never felt in better health or in better spirits. He describes the journey from Philadelphia to Portland as one of perfect ease, and the portion over the Northern Pacific as absolutely without inconvenience or discomfort. Throughout the east he found that the people generally, since his last visit three years ago, had acquired a great deal of knowledge about Oregon and Washington, and accurate knowledge too. With regard to the church in Oregon, the bishop said that two new clergymen would come to this jurisdiction before Easter—the Rev. Mr. W. R. Powell of Minnesota to Grand Ronde and the Rev. Mr. Henry J. Gurr to Corvallis and McMinnville. Another candidate for orders was expected to take charge as superintendent of Good Samaritan hospital. Bishop Morris will reside at St. Helen's hall until summer. He will officiate at Grace church, Astoria, next Sunday, and in this city the Sunday after. Bishop Paddock is expected home soon after Easter.

REMOVING STUMPS WITH POWDER.—At the farm of A. H. Johnson near Reedville an experiment was made yesterday to demonstrate the feasibility of removing stumps by means of explosions. It was very satisfactory, but where the land is not very valuable or where the stumps are very numerous would prove too expensive. About twelve pounds of powder costing nine cents per pound were placed under a stump four feet in diameter. The explosion in most cases lifted the stump clear of the ground and blew it into several or more pieces. Fifteen pounds of the powder were placed under a tree 200 feet in hight and exploded. The old king of the forest was raised three feet, split to some distance and the top broken off, but with a thud it dropped back to its place and stood as erect as ever. In a little over an hour twenty huge stumps were removed.

PLAN TO RAISE THE UMATILLA.—John Holland, master builder of the O. R. & N. Co.'s river division, yesterday received from John L. Howard, assistant manager of the Oregon Improvement Company, a sketch of the sunken steamer Umatilla in Esquimalt harbor. She lies in seven and a half fathoms of water, her stern 100 feet from the wharf. She lies on a bottom of sand and clay and is listed at an angle of twenty five degrees. A survey of the ship is to be made forthwith, but it is not yet known what disposition will be made of her. Mr. Holland has prepared plans for an apparatus for lifting her bodily and moving her to a place where she can be repaired. If he should ever undertake the work the chances are ten to one that the knowledge of such matters will enable him to score a success.

PETITIONED FOR PLANK.—Some time since the city council ordered the extension of Water street from Smith Bros. & Watson's foundry to the north boundary of the Terwilliger claim, a distance of one mile, and known as Hood and Multnomah streets, to be improved by macadamizing. The property owners along the new streets have now petitioned the council to have plank laid in the place of macadam, and as the price of lumber has declined this will probably be done. When the mile of road is completed it will do away with so much of the vile old macadamized road and will be a great and much needed improvement.

SALVAGE CASE DISMISSED.—Judge Deady yesterday rendered a decision in the case of the bark C. D. Bryant, libeled by pilot Olsen for salvage. The judge held that under the statutes a pilot could not make a claim for salvage from vessels in distress on his pilot grounds unless he incurred extraordinary danger and risk. The case was dismissed with costs.

BRIEF MENTION.

Emerson's minstrels next week.

Regular council meeting to-night.

Special meeting of the Ladies Relief Society this afternoon.

The Pacific express due this morning is reported twelve hours late.

Colonel Worth has been appointed aide-de-camp under Major Sears, vice J. M. Harkleroad.

The awnings in front of Odd Fellows Temple and Y. M. C. A. hall have been removed.

One hundred and sixty emigrants arrived by the Oregon yesterday morning, 110 in the steerage and fifty in the cabin.

The rumpus on the steamship dock yesterday morning was caused by a drunken hackman from East Portland. He will be refused admittance to the dock in future.

P. Wagner was yesterday appointed by the county court administrator of the estate of William Lindemann, deceased, valued at $2000. Franz Felder, C. F. Pfluger and G. Castendieck were named as appraisers.

The examination of Jim Harris, the alleged river pirate, came up in Justice Bushwiler's court yesterday, the prisoner being represented by E. I. Marden. ... As the state had not its witnesses ready the examination was postponed until to-morrow.

The jury in the case of Ho Shot vs. Wells Fargo & Co. yesterday returned a verdict for defendant. Poor Shot was deliberately swindled out of his money by a bad woman, and the jury had no idea of making Wells, Fargo & Co. responsible for his own folly.

ENTERTAINMENT AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The entertainment given in the Y. M. C. A. hall last evening, by the Ladies' Auxiliary Association, was one thoroughly enjoyed by all present. The following is the programme as given:

Duet—Violin and Piano ... Miss R. W. Hoyt and J. B. Pringle
Song ... Miss Gracie Davy
Tableau Charade
Vocal Duet ... Reuben and Rachel
Proverb in Tableaux
Song ... Mr. Geo. Best
Vocal Trio (comic) ... Messrs. R. K. Warren, Templeton and Frost
Tableaux Charade
Duet—Violin and Piano ... R. W. Hoyt and J. B. Pringle
Song in Costume— Darby and Joan ... Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Best.

The selections were all finely rendered, the tableaux especially reflecting great credit upon the ladies and gentlemen taking part. The duet and song by the little ones gave great satisfaction and provoked much merriment. The supper which followed was a success.

MR. WILSON WILL SERVE IF RE-ELECTED.

PORTLAND, OR., March 18, 1884.

To Messrs. Charles H. Dodd, J. K. Gill & Co., Jolen Taylor and many other taxpayers of School District No. 1:

GENTLEMEN—In reply to your call in the OREGONIAN this morning requesting that I permit my name to be used as a candidate for re-election to the board of directors, I beg to state that should the voters of this district again call me to a place in the board I would feel it my duty to step into harness and serve them as I have in the past, to the best of my ability.

Thanking you for your expression of general satisfaction as to my course as a director during the past four years, I remain, yours very respectfully,

JOHN WILSON.

AMUSEMENTS.

EMERSON'S MINSTRELS.—Next Monday night and throughout the week Charley Reed, "just the plain comedian," and twenty four supporters, comprising the full strength of Emerson's minstrels, will hold the boards at New Market theater. There are a great number of men, women and children in Portland whom Reed pleased a full dollar's worth when he was here three years ago, and about 1000 will be on hand to greet his reappearance. The list of specialty people includes several well known names. If they give ... an average performance, crowded houses will be the rule. The sale of reserved seats begins at Cornelius drug store to-morrow at 10 A. M.

PERSONAL.

Prof. de Lery, the well known Spanish teacher of San Francisco, is at the Esmond.

Mr. Andrew Roberts has returned from San Francisco, after an absence of two weeks.

Paul Schulze arrived in New York ... evening last to consult ... affairs of the Northern Pacific.

D. H. Stearns, who has been ... Cañon for several days, returned last evening ... reports everything progressing favorably at the future great manufacturing center of the northwest.

PERSONALS.

Edward Mills of Bullock & Jones, tailors and furnishers, is at the Esmond hotel. Hours, 11 to 2 and 5 to 8, room 73, first floor.

Call and see the new watch for $1 at No. 73 North First street.

PATRICK KEEFE'S SENTENCE.

U. S. Circuit Court, District of Oregon.

TUESDAY, MARCH 18, 1884.

The United States v. Patrick Keefe. Indictment for murder. Verdict of manslaughter. Sentence.

DEADY, J.

PATRICK KEEFE: You were accused by the grand jury of this district of the crime of murder committed at Sitka, Alaska, in your saloon on the morning of December 3, 1883, by shooting William Morton in the body with a revolver, and thereby causing his instant death. After a patient hearing by a trial jury, the defense of insanity caused by the excessive use of alcoholic drinks, in which you had indulged for ... found guilty of manslaughter. The ... have been a seaman ... years ... in the U. S. ... then ... at the port of Sitka, and in the habit when on shore of visiting your saloon and sometimes spending the night there, and that on the night of December 2 he slept there at your invitation, and was just going out to be ... early boat when you suddenly rose up in the dark from behind the bar and shot him without a word or warning or any provocation.

The verdict of the jury acquits you of the crime of murder, and I think properly so, for the ... will not warrant the inference that the killing was done with malice aforethought. But the verdict of manslaughter is well supported by the evidence. ... you might at your own ... induced the delusion that some persons were about the premises trying to steal your whisky or sticking ... through the floor or even attempting to ... imaginary ... there was no evidence that you were generally insane or unable to distinguish right from wrong.

Upon the most favorable view of the case for you, it appears that you shot Morton upon the impulse of a probably hastily formed belief that he was some one whom you fancied was haunting or waylaying the premises for the purpose of stealing your whisky.

But this impression, if true, as the court instructed the jury, was not a sufficient excuse for or justification of the killing, and therefore not so as to deny ...

The law (18 Stat. ...) provides that ... the crime of which you have been found guilty the punishment shall be imprisonment not exceeding ten years and a fine not exceeding $1000.

In apportioning this punishment to your act, the court cannot overlook the fact that admitting you killed Morton unintentionally, but upon the supposition that he was a person whom you imagined was trespassing upon your property, that this delusion was the direct result of your own immediate misconduct. I have often thought that it is a defect in our jurisprudence that a person who commits a crime while in a state of delirium or delusion caused by an excessive use of alcoholic drink may not be excused from the direct penal consequences of the act, be punished when restored to reason for the misconduct which produced such delirium or delusion and thereby caused the commission of the crime.

In this view of the matter it is the judgment of this court that you be and hereby are sentenced to imprisonment for the period of eight years and to pay a fine of $1, and that this sentence, as to said imprisonment, be executed by confinement in the penitentiary of Oregon.

THE COURTS.

THE INDIAN SCHOOL.

PORTLAND, March 17.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

An item in the Standard of the 12th inst., evidently instigated by personal ill feeling toward the present managers of the Indian schools, contains a statement at variance with the facts and calculated to convey a false impression. It is that the people have been "beset for a gift of a farm." The facts in the case are that it has not been necessary to pursue such a course.

While the people of Oregon and Washington territory are not fanatical on the Indian question, they are disposed to aid what they consider a move in the right direction. And as a result of a single statement made in THE OREGONIAN that land was needed for the school, there have been received the following offers: 34 acres at Forest Grove, 105 acres at Newberg, 200 acres at Amity, a choice of five tracts each containing 200 acres at Salem, 500 acres at Olympia and 800 acres at Seattle. Neither is it a fact, as the writer would show, that the idea of asking a contribution of land originated with the managers of the school. The call was made in accordance with instructions from the Indian office. All offers have been forwarded, and a decision will be made by the committee on Indian affairs.

New York World.

Uncle Sam as a nickname for the United States arose during the war of 1812. Samuel Wilson, an inspector of army supplies, who was widely known as Uncle Sam, having marked a number of casks with the government insignia "U. S.," was asked by a workman if the letters meant "Uncle Sam." The joke traveled and the phrase has since become a current Americanism. The English nation was first personified as "John Bull" in a political satire by Dr. John Arbuthnot, published in 1813, and intended to ridicule the Duke of Marlborough.

So popular have Dr. Price's Special Flavoring Extracts become that but few kitchens can be found where they are not used. Dr. Price has succeeded in this important domestic necessity. His flavorings are peculiarly delicious and so highly concentrated that it takes but a small quantity to impart the flavor of the fruit.

THE FINDLAYSON MURDER TRIAL.

First and Second Days' Proceedings in the Case against the Linn County Boy Murderer.

[FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT.]

ALBANY, March 18.

Yesterday at 10 o'clock the trial of Charles B. Findlayson for the murder of his step-grandmother was commenced in the circuit court. Messrs. Powell & Bilyeu, Clark, Lyon of Eugene and J. J. Whitney conduct the defense, while the prosecuting attorney, William Holmes, is assisted by L. E. Montanye and Judge Burnett of Corvallis. The entire afternoon and until a late hour last night was occupied in selecting a jury, which is composed as follows: A. S. Bass, ... A. D. Holland, James A. ..., M. Fuller, ..., Jacob Thompson, Walter Hudson, John F. Kester, F. A. Watts, Milton Hale, Robert Conner, Hugh Nickerson.

The defense, as stated by counsel, will be insanity. The case is of great interest and the court house is crowded with spectators, many of whom are ladies.

J. J. Findlayson was the first witness sworn and testified as follows: Lives at Forest Grove; am grandfather of the defendant and husband of murdered woman; went to Brownsville on 12th of November; left Charles at home alone; ... at home ... on the ... sheep ... back and knew something was wrong; found windows ... went to ... where folk were ... they supposed they were ... home, found horse had been in barn since Saturday; told Mr. Wren something was wrong; he and I went to house and found all doors ...; climbed in at window; I went ... found bedroom dark and the clothes on floor; I threw back quilts and pillows and found my wife dead; my wife was naked and limbs spread out; she was 58 years of age. (Here witness drew diagram of room and surrounding premises and explained to jury.) Body lay in middle of room; saw blood on floor. (Here ax, knife and shirt were introduced.) That is my ax; was found in room near dead body; ax was kept near woodshed; knife was found in bedroom; told Foster that it was Charley's; drawer ... was broken open and $5 taken; Charley and ... were always on good terms ... Foster, Charley was at ... when I started to Brownsville ... was ... manner ... Charley ... when I started to Brownsville left two horses in the barn; one was missing; got it four days afterwards at Jefferson.

Cross-examined—My ... and grandmother were on good terms ... the ax in ... It was bloody ... my wife ... thought Charley was on a ... see ... and not consider him ... he could give no reason for running away before ... acted very peculiar at different times about the house ... could not ...

F. H. Ainsworth testified as follows: Am justice of peace and acting coroner; was present at examination of murdered woman; found body on floor in bedroom; explained to jury location of room and body in room; limbs were naked when covers were removed; found much blood on floor, also on under side of quilts; found several stabs in side and neck, two on right side, sixteen under left shoulder blade, apparently stabbed with a knife; wounds all were as deep as knife blade would ...; explained to jury wound made by ax; ... as to wound and ...; found no indications of but one blow by the ax.

Cross-examined—Found no blood except where body lay; carpet on bedroom floor; passed through two doors in going to boy's room; white knobs on doors; blood on knobs; found blood on boy's shirt.

THE EAST SIDE.

A NOVEL OPIUM RAID.

Having received what was considered satisfactory pointers, Marshal Linville, Officers Stafford and Jerdan and Constable Culver proceeded Monday night to a house on the north side of H street, between Fifth and Sixth, tenanted by men named Lloyd and Cook, for the purpose of raiding the same for being an opium joint. The marshal led the way and pounded on the door with his billy, making sufficient racket to awake the seven sleepers, but receiving no response, whereupon with a huge ax he struck the door a heavy blow near the lock, breaking it open. The officers then filed in and explored the interior. First examining the lower part of the house and finding nothing to justify their suspicions, they proceeded to the upper story, in one room of which they found a woman in bed, apparently fast asleep, with a child by her side. Only after repeated calling and hallooing by the officers did she show any signs of animation, and then not evincing any alarm or fear. The officers then assured her of her safety and informed her of their mission, but she was too sleepy to give them any intelligible response to their several inquiries ... on ... she ... had no idea ... her husband was ... what he was doing, or whether he would be home that night. Not being able to obtain any satisfaction from her or from anything about the premises to convince them of the justness of their suspicions, they retired disappointed, though some what ... by their experience. Mysterious and suspicious circumstances connected with the house had ... warranted this ... of the officers. During the day it is kept closed ... while at night lights are burning through it to a late hour and frequent visits, it is said, are made by ... men. Councilman Laing was at home celebrating the twentieth anniversary of his wedding Monday evening, which is reasonable excuse for his not attending the meeting of the council.

A select masquerade ball, given by the Young People's Social Club of Holladay's addition, occurred at Neppach's hall last evening. There was a fair attendance, good music and fun and pleasure to satisfy all.

Upon the chambermaid visiting room 79 at the Home hotel yesterday morning she found the bed clothing badly burned. It is consoling, however, that the man who occupied the room and the hotel escaped injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Norwood Curry, with a large number of friends, celebrated their wooden wedding Monday evening at the residence of Mr. Jos. Buchtel. They were the recipients of many appropriate presents, both useful and ornamental.

Jas. H. Sprague has prepared plans and specifications for the engine house to be built for the First ward company. The front elevation shows a handsome two-story building surmounted by a bell tower. Bids for the construction will shortly be invited.

To the general surprise of the public the Democratic Era reappeared yesterday, but without any acknowledgment of editorship or ownership. It declares it will continue to be a democratic organ, though it says negotiations are pending for its sale. Thus the public are kept in suspense regarding its destiny.

Southern Oregon.

Jacksonville Sentinel: Politics have commenced warming up and we have heard of several citizens who are willing to sacrifice themselves for their country's sake.

The Rogue River Distilling Company have made about 2000 gallons of whisky on their last run and will continue several months longer. It furnishes employment for six men.

A party whose name is not known was arrested at Phoenix this week on a charge of attempting to commit a burglary—the general opinion being that he was the man who was trying to enter Olwell's house when Louis Olwell was shot—but nothing could be proven against him and he was discharged.

Work on the tunnel on Antelope creek has been resumed.

Railroad work in ... Pyle canyon is being pushed forward slowly.

Horses in the vicinity of Cove, Union county, are troubled with a complaint resembling the lung fever.

There seems to be an abundance of grain and hay in the Willamette valley and it is believed there is enough ... wheat to bread the entire population until the next harvest.

Stock have not wintered so well in the Willowa for years as it ... this winter, and the most singular thing ... is that stock on the summer range ... are in much better condition than those ... on the ...

Willowa correspondence of Mountain Sentinel: Some plowing was done in the valley last week, but the cold snap now on hand will send those early birds to roost again. It will not be long, however, until a general move will be made by all the farmers in that line and judging from preparations being made there will be double the amount of grain sown this season than any previous season since the settlement of the valley.

Washington Territory.

Cranberry culture is being extensively engaged in by the residents of Pacific county along the peninsula on Shoalwater bay.

Kittitas Localizer: The signs of the times do not seem to indicate much active railroad work in this section of the country. Frequent word comes that work will begin again on the lower Yakima, but no progress is being made.

If the Natches route for the Cascade division is selected by the Northern Pacific Company a good deal of unnecessary work has been done in the Yakima canyon between this valley and the mouth of the Natches river.

James M. Elgin says the Yakima Record has lost only about twenty head of sheep from his flock by natural causes, but the coyotes entered his corral, ... and caused the death of about 100 more that huddled together from fright and were smothered.

At Tacoma on Monday evening while a hotel team was being driven to the wharf the driver of the Villard house team tried to pass it, and in the race that followed the Central horses became frightened and started on a runaway down hill from the Halstead house. The coach struck an obstruction and was turned bottom side up. One passenger was inside, and he escaped uninjured. Henry Rush, the driver, was thrown a considerable distance but was not hurt. Albert Beck, who was riding on the outside, was heavily thrown and badly bruised, also showing some signs of internal wounds.

Says an exchange: To reduce the grade to 100 feet to the mile on the Natches route would require the building of eighteen bridges over that stream. The route as surveyed gives the grade at 116 feet to the mile. The Stampede grade is only eighty-six feet to the mile. The estimated cost of the Cascade division has been placed by Villard at $3,000,000 to $10,000,000 and $8,000,000 as his lowest estimate. Surveys have been in progress for the last twelve years and there may be some doubt if at this time they are satisfactory. One or two surveys over the Blue mountains sufficed to establish the route to Baker city and the engineering difficulties were fully as great as those to be encountered on the Cascade line.

An Olympia exchange says that a few nights ago that city was disgraced by one of the most high handed outrages ever perpetrated within her precincts, in which several well known parties took a part. About midnight several men were seen on the street endeavoring to tear down signs and making considerable noise, whereupon night watchman Fry interfered and requested them to stop, but instead of doing so they turned on him and took away his pistol and beat him so badly that it was with difficulty that he escaped at all. He made his way to the block house which Marshal Brown was engaged in guarding, as threats had been made to liberate a prisoner confined in the jail that night. As soon as the marshal found how things were, he hurried down town and found the parties who assaulted the night watchman, principal amongst whom were two loggers named Carmichael and McDonald, the latter being the party who assaulted the night watchman last December. The parties were all in a saloon on Main street drinking when the marshal arrived and informed Carmichael that he was under arrest. The latter refused to give himself up, whereupon the marshal drew his Winchester rifle, but before he could use it it is said half a dozen or more pistols were leveled at his head and a threat made that his life would pay the forfeit if he fired. Seeing that all odds were against him he dropped his rifle, and thus the mob was left in full possession of the field.

Says the Daily Courier: There is considerable talk among the citizens of organizing a law and order society the same as has been started in Seattle, and as such events as recently transpired are likely to occur at any time so long as objectionable characters are allowed to reside in the city, we hope to see such a society organized at once, so that life and property may be considered safe.

Since January 1 of this year the silver mining companies of Butte have shipped over 600 bars of fine bullion.

Ground is to be broken on the 15th of April on the Butte end of the Red Mountain short line railroad between Helena and Butte. The entire length of the line will be forty two miles.

A few days since two deer were chased by butchers to Marent's trestle. One was afraid to cross and was killed, but the other one crossed the trestle safely and disappeared in the woods beyond.

The man arrested at Glendive recently, charged with being either the principal or an accomplice in the Teller robbery at St. Louis, in which $75,000 in greenbacks was stolen from the express company, gave his name as Bennaway, and was ticketed for Butte, Montana.

Helena Herald: Calamity Jane, the most noted woman of the western frontier and the heroine of many a nickel novel, has been living down the Yellowstone for some time past since leaving the Black Hills country, but has pulled up stakes and joined the stampede for the Coeur d'Alenes. She is now on her way thither.

OREGON PACIFIC RAILROAD NOTES.

Yaquina Post.

Work is now progressing beyond Toledo, 300 Chinamen being on the grade.

More than $6000 duty on steel rails were paid in to the customs office last week.

The three master now en route for this port has about 600 tons of steel rails as part of her cargo.

As soon as the O. P. R. R. Co.'s new steam saw mill gets to work bridge and other timbers will be turned out rapidly.

A large addition to the tunnel force reached Corvallis the first of the week and is doubtless now at work digging the three long holes through the mountains.

As fast as rails arrive tracklaying will progress and it will not be long before Toledo will be reached and passed, and then on to Elk City and the tunnels.

The roadbed is almost ready for the rails as far up the bay as Boone's, and the locomotive will be dragging material backwards and forwards over the completed line to Toledo almost before you know it.

The cribwork on the bay for the railroad was about finished when Mr. Boone's ... reached last week and grading will progress much more rapidly. If there is delay hereafter it will be on bridgework and tunnels.

The contract for timbers has been let, and the work of extending the wharf on down toward Yaquina point will soon be inaugurated. The point has been selected upon which the new sawmill will be erected, and it will not be long ere the new mill will be running to its fullest capacity—30,000 or 40,000 feet per day.

William M. Hoag, manager, arrived at headquarters on the bay on Saturday. Since his arrival there has been increased activity everywhere. He immediately telegraphed large orders for tools and supplies of all kinds, the force of employes was largely increased and every arrangement made to crowd the work at all points.

EVIL OF TAXING CREDITS.

Chicago Tribune.

The English people have gone through all experiments of taxation, and they long since settled down to the conviction that it does not pay to tax money and credits, but that it is a financial blunder. The Illinois people cannot afford to ignore the results of English experience. It is folly to repeat the vexations and incur enormous losses in order to go over the same ground which the English have already traversed only to reach the same conclusions they have arrived at after long experience. It is infinitely wiser to accept the principles which they have worked out by practical operation. They have learned that it is vastly more profitable to the government and the people to tax the actual tangible product of investments and encourage the use of money and credit by making their employment free and unharassed.

When money is converted into tangible property—houses, chattels, goods, etc.—it presents profit to those who have employed it and the beneficiaries can then afford to contribute a share to the support of local government, and it is in such shape that it cannot be concealed from the assessor. But an effort to tax the promise of repayment of this money after it has left its owner's hands is vicious in principle and evil in practice, as it tends to discourage the loaning of money at cheap interest for investment in business and in building homes. The English have discovered that it pays better to make sure of one taxation than to make an ineffectual effort to impose a double taxation.

A million of dollars brought into Chicago to loan for building and business enterprise means the support of 1000 workingmen and their families during the entire year, which is equivalent to the support of 5000 people. But at the end of the year that $1,000,000 of money, besides having contributed sustenance to all these people, has been converted into an equal amount of tangible property which the assessor has no difficulty in finding. It pays its full share of the contribution necessary to the maintenance of government in addition to the valuable uses it has served. But if the owner or owners of the same $1,000,000 are informed that they cannot loan it in Chicago without paying 2 or 3 per cent. on the notes taken for repayment, then the money is withdrawn altogether and sent to some community which has more liberal and advanced ideas of political economy, or else it is loaned in Chicago at much higher rates of interest and the enterprise of the borrower is curtailed in the same proportion. In case the money is driven away from Chicago the 5000 people who would have lived a whole year upon the work it would furnish are deprived of that essential advantage, and the state, county, city, towns and parks are deprived of the new revenue they would have received from the taxable property into which it would have been converted. To the extent that money shall continue to be loaned at a rate of interest enough higher to offset the tax on the evidence of indebtedness the amount of borrowed capital will diminish, improvements will be fewer, the expansion of business will be arrested, employment fall off, the growth of the city will be retarded and the list of taxable property will be curtailed. All this should be clear and self evident to the dullest mind and it surpasses the comprehension of an intelligent thought how any rational person can suppose so preposterous a thing as that the debtor class or the industrial masses would be benefited by taxing notes or mortgages, which drive away loanable money and raise the rate of interest on the borrowers.

Divided against Themselves.

St. Louis Republican (Dem.)

The democrats are not agreed on the tariff question. It is much to be regretted that they are not. A great majority of the party are for positive reasonable and necessary reform. A small portion of the party are thoroughly imbued with the idea that a protective tariff is wise and useful to American industries. It is, however, a great mistake to suppose that democrats are more divided than republicans are.

INDIAN DEPREDATION CLAIMS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, [illegible]
WASHINGTON D C March 4 1884

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

I am in receipt of numerous inquiries concerning the prospects for the payment of claims for Indian depredations and as this is a matter of very great interest to a large class of our people whose energy and enterprise are changing the vast west from the domain of the savage to that of civilization I desire to answer through the press for the benefit of the public generally.

The claims pending before the department and congress amount now to probably $10,000,000. Of these claims the interior department has reported about $1,500,000 to congress with a favorable recommendation. Congress, however, has made no appropriation by general law for a number of years and these claims have been gradually accumulating. Whenever attempts have been made to secure appropriations in general to meet these claims our representatives from the west have been met by the opposition of the more numerous representatives of the east. The argument has been that the government is under no obligation to pay any of these depredation claims; that when the citizen places himself in the position of risk as in other cases of damage from riot or invasion from a foreign country, the government is not responsible having exercised due diligence and done its duty. The people of the west are told that if they are robbed or murdered by white men the state does not make pecuniary recompense to the sufferers or their heirs, and therefore the question is asked why they should expect it because the depredation is committed by an Indian. It is contended that our case is similar to those of other citizens who suffer from invasion from abroad who cannot recover on grounds of public policy; that the paying of these depredation claims would have a tendency to make less liable their personal efforts for the preservation of property and of our common country.

It has been contended upon our side that the situation is an entirely different one; that the government treats the Indians neither as foreign nations nor as citizens; that it treats them as wards of the nation; that it assigns them a territory to occupy, places them in charge of United States officials whose duty it is to restrain them from plundering settlers on the frontier; that they are placed under the sole care and control of the United States; that the laws of the commonwealths in which their reservations are situated are not allowed to extend over them; that the processes of the civil courts have no effect inside of their jurisdiction and that our citizen who is wronged can follow them only to the bounds of their reservation; there he must stop; that the laws of the United States give him no indemnity or no remedy for the wrong done him; that he is restrained from taking the remedy into his own hands; that he is even prohibited under the law from receiving from the Indian any compensation for his injury, and that he may behold the stolen property before his very eyes inside the bounds of the reservation and he dare not take possession of his own. If he had been wronged by a white man he could to a certain extent remedy his wrong by taking possession of his property. He could accept satisfaction for the injury done him. The laws of the land would furnish him the courts with all their powerful processes to enforce his rights. He could recover judgment, seize and take the last dollar of the property of the wrong-doer and have him punished at public expense for the crime committed. But if the wrong doer be an Indian the party wronged is powerless.

Now it is a well established principle of law that every citizen who bears his lawful proportion of the burdens of the government is entitled to protection in his person or property in some form. If the general government will not allow the white man to enforce his rights against the Indian depredator, and will not permit him to accept a compromise offering from the Indian and will not allow the common remedies of the courts and the law, it is in duty bound by every principle of justice and good government to remedy the wrong itself. In every proper and just view it is an appropriation of private property to public use. Upon what principle of law or morals can our government stand back and refuse to pay these claims while withholding from the citizens all remedy in the law and taking and retaining in its own custody and possession all the lands and assets of every description of these people? To do so is an example of perfidy to the frontier settlers and of bad faith such as no court could tolerate between man and man, and is demoralizing in its tendency to the whole nation.

Congress has recognized its obligation in the past. The congress that assembled in 1796 in a general law relating to Indian depredations laid down the broad proposition that "in respect to the property taken, stolen or destroyed, the United States should guarantee to the party injured an eventual indemnification." This law remained upon our statute books re-enacted in various forms until the year 1834. During said time claims of this character were generally paid out of the annuities due to the Indians. But in 1834 a more general and more comprehensive law was enacted regulating trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes which continued the guarantee of the United States for eventual indemnification in the same language as under the old act, and provided that if no annuity was payable to the Indian the amount claimed should be paid from the treasury of the United States, and this law continued in force twenty five years longer until 1859, when a law was passed containing this provision: "That so much of the act entitled 'an act to regulate trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes and to preserve peace on the frontiers,' approved June 30 1834, as provides that the United States shall make indemnification out of the treasury for property taken or destroyed in certain cases by Indians trespassing upon white men as described in the said act, be and the same is hereby repealed; provided however that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to impair or destroy the obligation of the Indian to make indemnities out of the annuities as described in said act." An authoritative construction and limitation was put upon this act by the joint resolution of June 1860, which provided that the repeal by the eighth section of the act of congress of so much of the act as provides that the United States shall make indemnification out of the treasury for property taken or destroyed in certain cases by Indians trespassing upon white men should not be construed to destroy or impair any indemnity which existed at the date of said repeal; so that from and after that time the liability of the United States as fixed by act of congress was first to pay all depredations committed by Indians prior to the date of its passage; if annuity funds were due the United States, to pay out of these funds; if none were due then the United States were obligated to pay out of the United States treasury for all depredations. And as to depredations committed after its passage the United States took upon itself the obligation of a trustee in all cases where annuities were due the Indians and continued on itself the obligation to pay over to persons suffering by acts of the Indians the amount of their damages out of those annuities. The practice of the government after that time was to pay these depredation claims through the departments without legislative intervention, which practice continued until 1870, when congress provided that no money thereafter appropriated under any general act or deficiency bill making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian department should be used to pay annuities due to or to be used or expended for the care and benefit of any tribe or tribes of Indians, or should be applied to the payment of any claim for depredation that may have been or may be committed by such tribe or tribes or any member or members thereof, and that no claim for Indian depredation should there after be paid until congress should make special appropriation therefor.

It is quite evident from this recital of past legislation that this government has recognized its liability to its citizens to see that they are reimbursed for depredation losses which they have sustained. This guaranty results from the soundest principles of law without the aid of any statutes, and therefore could not be affected by any act repealing any particular statute; and I take it that the act of 1870 and the prior acts referred to were in no sense intended as a contrary declaration, but were intended merely to effect the method of obtaining relief. In fact Senator Harlan in reporting this section of the act of 1870 from the committee on Indian affairs expressly stated that it was the purpose of the committee on Indian affairs to prevent thereafter the payment of claims for Indian depredations out of general appropriations without requiring them to be submitted for the action of congress. The effect of this enactment was to prevent the payment of these claims through the department as they were allowed, and to require the claims to be submitted to a further examination and appropriation by congress. That such was the intention was evidenced by the act of May 29 1872, which provided that the secretary of the interior should prepare and cause to be published such rules and regulations as he might deem necessary or proper, prescribing the manner of presenting claims arising under existing laws or treaty stipulations for compensation for depredations committed by the Indians, and the degree and character of the evidence necessary to support such claims, and that he should carefully investigate all such claims as may be presented subject to the rules and regulations prepared by him and report to congress at each session thereof the nature, character and amount of such claims whether allowed by him or not, and the evidence upon which his action was based; simply providing that no payment on account of such claim should be made without a specific appropriation therefor by congress.

Since that date no general law has been passed making appropriations, but special appropriations have from time to time been made in individual cases by private relief bills, thus continually admitting the doctrine of liability.

Thus it will be seen that the whole spirit and tenor of our laws, the same now that it has ever been, is to treat the property of the citizen taken from him by Indians in treaty relations with the United States as appropriated to public use, entitling the citizen to compensation, and congress, acting upon this theory, has promptly made compensation till within a few years. Spain and Great Britain allowed the Indians to pay for their depredations and debts in lands. And by the same statute whereby the United States prohibited the conveyance of lands by the Indians they guaranteed ultimate indemnification to citizens for losses sustained at their hands.

Not only was it justice to compensate the loss sustained by the honest, industrious settler, but it was policy to do so, for many reasons—a principal one being the saving of warfare. A man, we will suppose, has his house burned and his herds destroyed or stolen. He has no remedy in the courts. If he is made to understand that congress will afford him none he must fall back upon the right which every one has to defend his own. Such a course would bring on war and involve the government in tremendous cost, and always has been unadvisable.

In view of our past history, I claim the [illegible] unjust now for representatives from the east, simply because the depredation border is now removed from their immediate vicinity and they no longer have a direct interest in claims of this character, to deny through their more numerous representation the claims of the newer sections. For years they voted money from the treasury to pay the depredation claims of their own border, and only when they ceased to have a direct interest because the field of trouble is extended westward do they discover any doubt in their minds as to the legality of such payments.

These claims have accumulated as I have stated until they now amount [illegible] to the sum of $10,000,000 in the aggregate. [illegible] even with this difficulty [illegible] the machinery provided [illegible] the adjudication of these claims has not proven suitable, and the interior department has availed itself in many cases of the clause which allowed it to transmit the evidence and claim to congress without recommendation, so that, as I have already stated, of this vast sum of $10,000,000 in the aggregate claims amounting to but $1,500,000 have been allowed. Some of the other claims are disallowed, but the greater part are simply transmitted without departmental adjudication. Again many claimants are unsatisfied with the amounts allowed by the department on their claims. In fact the official machinery of the interior department is unfitted for judicial investigation. It is unfair to the government, as it is grossly ex parte, and it is unfair to the claimant, subjecting him to the dangers of an unsatisfactory valuation at the caprice of some [illegible] clerk.

It is thus apparent that some additional method must be adopted that will provide for the examination of the claims in detail with better and more adequate facilities than those which the law now furnishes before they can be paid [illegible].

In the last congress I introduced a bill providing for the creation of a commission with ample power and authority and with [illegible] for the examination of all these claims [illegible] evidence already on file and such additional as the parties might present. The same bill is before the present congress and the whole matter is now under investigation before the committee on Indian affairs. I must say however that it is a question, in view of our experience in the past with other commissions of the same character, whether or not it would not be better to have these claims referred to the court of claims for examination rather than to a commission.

I am in consultation now with parties of considerable experience on this subject and have prepared a bill which I have presented sending at the pleasure of the claimants all these claims with the evidence to the court of claims for adjudication and payment, and also one proposition to pay all claims reported to congress for payment, with a view of bringing the whole subject matter up with the various plans of action so that the best and most feasible one may be adopted and pushed through.

It will be impossible for me to state what action our committee or congress will probably take in the premises, but I think that in view of the sound principle upon which is based the liability of the government to meet these claims, the past legislative admission of this liability, the present statutory enactments recognizing it, the fact that the aggregate of the claims has about reached its maximum—the Indian question being now practically settled and the probability that but few more depredation claims will arise—I am led to believe that the day is not far distant when these claims will be met, equitably adjusted and paid.

My advice therefore to the claimants would be, if they have not already presented their claims with proofs, to present them to the interior department immediately, supported with all the proper evidence they can bring to bear, and await their final adjudication and payment.

Should congress provide for sending any or all of these claims to the court of claims, then let parties interested prosecute their claims accordingly. Respectfully,

M. C. GEORGE

STORIES ABOUT TOPERS.

Some Famous Drinkers of Scotland—A Judicial Bummer.

Temple Bar.

But the greatest drinker in Scotland was the celebrated Judge George Fergusson, Lord Hermand, whose character is delightfully portrayed by Lord Cockburn in his Memoirs.

Commonplace topers think drinking a pleasure, but with Hermand it was a virtue. It inspired the excitement by which he was elevated and the discursive ability which he loved to promote. It had beyond the ordinary attractions; he had a sincere respect for drinking, indeed a high moral approbation and a serious compassion for the poor wretches who could not indulge in it, with due contempt for those who could but did not. * * * No carouse ever injured his health, for he was never ill; or impaired his taste for home and quiet, or muddled his head; he slept the sounder for it and rose the earlier and the cooler. The cordiality inspired by claret and punch was so congenial to all right thinking that he was confident that he could convert the pope if he could get him to sup with him, and certainly his holiness would have been hard to persuade if he could have withstood Hermand about the middle of his second tumbler.

Lord Hermand as well as his friend Lord [illegible] lived to a very advanced age and neither seemed to have suffered even a headache from their drunken bouts. Lord Hermand used to deplore the degeneracy of his youthful friends who would not or could not follow his example, and on a pathetic occasion exclaimed: "What shall we come to at last? I believe I shall be left alone in the world drinking claret." Lord Hermand used frequently after sitting up all night to walk into court merely washing his hands. Even on the seat of justice he pleaded the cause of drinking. Lord Cockburn writes:

Two young gentlemen, great friends, went together to the theater in Glasgow, supped at the lodgings of one of them and passed a whole summer night over their punch. In the morning a kindly wrangle broke out about their separating or not separating, when by some rashness, if not accident, one of them was stabbed, not lifelessly, but in so vital a part that he died on the spot. The survivor was tried at Edinburgh and was convicted of culpable homicide. Very properly he was only sentenced to a short imprisonment. Hermand, who felt that [illegible] had been brought on the cause of drinking, had no sympathy with the tenderness of his brethren and was vehement for transportation. "We are told," said Lord Hermand, "that there was no malice and that the prisoner must have been in liquor. In liquor! Why he was drunk! And yet he murdered the very man who had been drinking with him! They had been carousing the whole night, and yet he stabbed him after drinking a whole bottle of rum with him. Good God! my lords, if he will do this when he's drunk, what will he not do when he is sober?"

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

Henry Villard's daughter attended the opera in New York the other night wearing a white worsted [illegible] shawl, and society was shocked.

The New York Tribune says: The painful operation known to political surgery as the horizontal reduction of Mr Morrison's conceit is now being pushed rapidly forward.

General Longstreet has aged very fast. His hair is white, his hearing hard and his eyesight dim. He stands six feet two inches and weighs over 200 pounds. His youngest son is a youth of 19 named Robert Lee Longstreet.

Wendell Phillips left behind no manuscripts by which [illegible] in collected form. There is much good material however in the newspaper reports of his numerous speeches and they will be used in a forthcoming volume.

Dr Oswald has contributed a paper to the North American Review for April in which he discusses the causes of the increasing frequency and violence of floods in American rivers and the measures necessary for abating them.

Henry George will deliver his last lecture in London March 21. After a brief visit to the continent he will return to America. He considers his tour to have been highly successful, especially in Scotland, where his lecture created a strong antipathy to the landlords.

The administration people are somewhat disturbed at the purchase of the Commercial Advertiser in the anti Arthur interest, as that leaves the president without a single newspaper advocate in New York city, and the two or three papers at Albany and Buffalo which are friendly to him have only a limited jurisdiction.

An eastern newspaper of recent date contained the following unique advertisement: "If the gentleman who keeps a shoe store with a red head will return the umbrella of a young lady with whalebone ribs and iron handle to the slate-roofed grocer's shop, he will hear of something to his advantage, as the same is the gift of a deceased mother now no more, with the name engraved on it."

An old soldier has just died in Turin at the age of 104. Born in 1780, Giovanni Battista Campana [illegible] was in his youth a soldier of the republic of Genoa and later shared in all the campaigns of Napoleon, surviving the passage of the Beresina by almost a miracle. After Napoleon's fall he entered the service of the king of Sardinia. In 1877 Victor Emmanuel, having heard of his valor and devotion to Charles Albert, sought an interview with him and after a cordial conversation made him a rich present.

Carl Schurz, Franz Siegel and August Scheller were fast friends in their youth. Siegel and Scheller were in the same military class in a school in Germany, the former being graduated forty seventh and Scheller fifth in a class of fifty. The three came to America together. Schurz is the noted politician and editor, Siegel became a famous general, and Scheller is a barber in Atlanta, Ga. The unfortunate one of the three tried to be an entomologist, but he could not earn a living as a scientific man and so he became a barber.

Tom Hughes writes from England regretting that he will not be able to visit the Tennessee Rugby colony this year, but feels well represented there by his two sons, four nephews and any quantity of cousins. He means to found a new Rugby school there which will draw in the sons of Englishmen who now are buying southern lands in large sections, and there will be room in the school for as many American boys as choose to attend.

How Millionaires Are Made.

From an Interview with a Californian.

Said I: "Who is the wealthiest man in California?"

Jim Flood, worth $100,000,000. He is a liberal man and a shrewd one. He has built up on San Francisco bay a new port called Costa City with magnificent storehouses and piers, from which the wood of those rich countries is shipped direct to Europe and the world. O'Brien, Flood's partner, is dead, and his fortune distributed. Mackay, one of the bonanza crowd, is thought to be worth $60,000,000, and Jim Fair worth perhaps $40,000,000.

Said I: "How in the world did Flood and O'Brien make such fortunes?"

"Just in this way, my friend," said Mr Hyman, taking up a piece of paper and a pencil. "Flood and O'Brien kept a saloon, and the drinks were twenty five cents apiece. Fair and Mackay were miners who for some years did not strike anything rich. So they gave mining stock for the drinks instead of money. The habit was to walk into the saloon with three of your friends, ask for the drinks and drink them, repeat and say to the barkeeper 'this is mine,' and walk out. The barkeeper made four marks with a lead pencil and a fifth mark across them, signifying $1 25 for each round. These rounds would go up to a pretty high figure, but on a certain occasion Mackay or Fair would say: 'Well, Flood, we want to make a settlement for drinks,' and they would give their mining stock at a certain valuation current at that time, which Flood and O'Brien put into the safe. Behold! On a certain day metal is struck in prodigious quantities in the mines that Fair and Mackay own, and when Flood and O'Brien open the safe and count the stock they have it amounts to more than Fair and Mackay; so when the mines were pouring out their million or two every week these saloon keepers who had been receiving 25 cents per drink for watered whisky started a fortune."

"Have any of these men produced sons of any consequence?"

"None whatever. The parents were tolerably keen and somewhat generous people. Mackay has set up several persons in business partly from generosity, somewhat from conceiving that they would make money. The tendency of such newfangled families is to be voluptuous."

A Legal Decision in Alabama.

The old form of logic, that might makes right, still holds good in Alabama. A judge of that state has decided that a satchel placed in a car seat reserves it unless the man who moves it is bigger than the man who put it there.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

TUESDAY March 18

Overland receipts include 60 cs coal oil, 150 kgs nails, 100 cs [illegible], 150 kgs syrup, 4 tubs butter.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours [illegible] ctls wheat, 6 bbls flour, 178 ctls oats, 16 ctls bran, 80 ctls millstuff, 15 sks potatoes, 15 bdls hides, 177 cs eggs, 65 bxs fruit, 15 bls hay. Also 4887 ctls wheat, [illegible] ctls bran, 65 ctls millstuff, 150 bdls hides from the eastern section.

IMPORTS—Per steamer [illegible] from San Francisco: 111 sks beans, [illegible] sks potatoes, [illegible] cs sauce, 10 cs [illegible], kgs syrup, [illegible] sks salt, 67 [illegible] oils, [illegible] coal oil, [illegible] oil, 10 cs [illegible], 8 bbls, 25 cs oils, 129 cs [illegible], [illegible] bdls iron, [illegible] bbls [illegible], 304 sks [illegible], [illegible] kgs nails, [illegible] twine, [illegible] kgs lead, [illegible] bxs tin.

WHEAT—Transactions in the interior continue to be reported, but the price paid is kept back as far as possible and it is hard to quote. [illegible] tons largely [illegible] is on wharf to go into steamer for San Francisco. The exporting firms here have either chartered ships at that port or are waiting for the charterers. The large shipment of flour noted yesterday will mostly go into ships there. Receipts here are larger but there is an outlet provided for all coming in. Walla Walla grain appears to be held higher. Nominal spot quotations are $1 52½ for valley and $1 4[illegible] for Walla Walla. English markets to-day are easier, the improvement being nearly lost sight of.

FLOUR—Agents generally find an outlet for all settlement and less is heard of cutting. The bulk of that sent to San Francisco goes in ship for Liverpool. The steady and important workings in this way will seriously affect our expected direct export trade this spring.

FRUIT—Choice apples scarce with small trading. The demand is only fair at $1 75@2 [illegible]. Oranges in small stock at old prices. Few came in by last steamer and these were in poor condition. The late storm in the southern part of California was very damaging to the crop in that section. It is stated that one quarter of the crop was destroyed. A large lot ready for shipment at Los Angeles was utterly spoiled.

BUTTER—Choice California roll selling at [illegible]. Eastern neglected owing to demands of holders.

POULTRY—Chickens wanted and prices are still high. Ducks will sell well. Geese and turkeys in small movement.

EGGS—Receipts continue large with no indication of decrease. Weak at 20 cents.

WOOL—The Atlantic wool markets have shown a steady firmness for all good grades. These being wanted and will be in request until the new clip [illegible] being small and diminishing the supply. There is none coming forward until the new clip appears; buyers can only look to stocks. The Australian wools were marketed under strong competition and the importers must obtain a high price to avoid losses. Latest mail dates report an active call for [illegible] wools, western buyers visiting the markets in large numbers, but doing business in a conservative manner. Many hold off for lower prices which jobbers will not give, believing their position a strong one with good chances of improvement.

SHIPPING NOTES

The ship Snow & Burgess loads at Port Blakely.

The Beda brought up a small cargo for this city which she was discharging at Flanders. She goes to Knappton for a lumber cargo.

The Starbuck will be ready for cargo about Friday of this week.

The telegraph reports the loss by collision of the bark Lucy [illegible], Liverpool for San Francisco. As no vessel of similar name is en route it is probable the her voyage has been misstated.

The brig W. H. Meyer has been sold for $9000. By a recent combination of carrying interests she was ruled off the route to the islands and will now probably go to Mexico.

New York Freights.

NEW YORK, March 18.—There has been a marked activity in Pacific coast freights during the past week. Rates are firm and advancing, and the inquiry for tonnage has increased, owing to which the amount of freight taken by the railroads has been small compared with the large business [illegible]. This has materially helped [illegible] freights. Van Vleck & Co have taken up the ship Arabia, a vessel of 2000 tons register. She left [illegible] on the 15th inst. They have chartered the ship Sintram, 1644 tons, to follow the ship Oregon, which will probably get away the latter part of next week. The ship Berlin, [illegible] tons, is expected by the 1st of April. Van Vleck reports having taken in 1330 tons of freight to-day, and they look for a steady increase of business. With continued favorable weather Sutton & Co have chartered the Richard Buck to follow the Abner I. [illegible]. The latter vessel will be full this week. [illegible] E. Ridgeway, 1403 tons, at Philadelphia, will get away this week. She will be followed by the ships Standard and St Stephen. A new charter will load coal at Baltimore. The Belle O'Brien has been chartered to take coal at about $6. Nothing doing for Portland.

OUR MORTGAGE AND TAX LAWS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Probably it has ere this occurred to some of the makers of the usury and mortgage tax laws that the theories advanced by them in favor of those measures, viz: That they would protect the borrower and make money cheap, were [illegible] fallacies. The effect of those laws has been the driving away from Oregon millions of dollars, which by corporations and individuals would [illegible] no other way than [illegible] to borrowers [illegible] of lenders [illegible] of all laws [illegible] real estate [illegible] [illegible] loan [illegible] [illegible] states [illegible] in the development [illegible] millions [illegible] [illegible]. Prior to [illegible] had gradually fallen from [illegible] knowledge [illegible] obtainable at [illegible] approved security; but for the existence of these laws [illegible] who provided [illegible] the present [illegible] compulsory [illegible] sell the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] progress to [illegible]. The [illegible] business [illegible]. Happily [illegible] that the mortgage tax [illegible]. The [illegible] of the late laws is the best evidence of legislative wisdom. In conclusion let us [illegible] law fix [illegible] products [illegible] [illegible].

The School Question in Portland.

A fight is going on in Portland in regard to the elaborate and expensive machine called a high school. [illegible] are probably partly right and partly wrong, but it is well enough to begin a warfare against the costly institution called a high school in such cities as Portland—or in the whole [illegible]. It [illegible] people [illegible] to teach young men and women what a great proportion of the young men at least would be better without. Not that they are taught positive evil, [illegible] of that any amount of education [illegible] injury [illegible] his education; they are inevitably taught to despise the common humble occupations and pursuits for which they are best calculated and in which alone they can hope to [illegible], or at least they think that with their high school education they should not spend their lives at the same lowly pursuits that they would have followed if they had only attained the wisdom of the three Rs. They must take some one of the genteel [illegible] and they [illegible] as a farmer or a mechanic or a manual laborer. They are ready fit for nothing [illegible] the rest of their lives [illegible]. Tell all you [illegible] as you [illegible] sorry for about [illegible] people.

A Quick Recovery.—It gives us great pleasure to state that the merchant who was reported [illegible] the point of death [illegible] Pneumonia [illegible] recovered by the use of DR. WM HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS. Naturally he feels grateful for the benefits derived from using this remedy for the lungs and throat, and in giving publicity to this statement we are actuated by motives of public benefaction, trusting that others may be benefited in a similar manner.

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well known city missionary in New York and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

78 E 54th St New York May 16 1882

Messrs J C AYER & CO, Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable itching humor affecting more especially my limbs, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so [illegible] that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by observation of many other cases, and from personal use in former years, I began taking it for the above named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved until it is now excellent. I feel a hundred per cent stronger, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used in all less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.

RESULTS OF RAILWAY COMMISSIONS

The practical results of establishing commissions for the regulation of railways seem to justify the doubts which have been expressed as to their efficiency The pressure which the railways are able to bring upon such tribunals is frequently stronger than ordinary men are able to resist and the body which is created for the protection of the people becomes instead the servant of the corporations

Such at least, seems to be the conclusion justified by the practical experience of the states which have established such bodies In Georgia indeed, the railway commission has proved vigorous and bold, and has fought the battle of the people with signal success In California, on the other hand the sittings of the commission to investigate the encroachments and abuses of the Central Pacific railway are openly scoffed at as farcically conducted in the interest of that gigantic corporation In Illinois the commission has been in operation a number of years, but its actual accomplishments can be stated by a zero And now it looks very much as if the more recently constituted commission in New York is going to be added to the list of those which have not stamina enough to enforce the needed regulation of the great railways.

The commission was created with ample powers to enforce a strict supervision over the New York railways It can investigate them whenever it chooses, inquire into accidents resulting in death or injury, compel the production of books or papers, order additions to rolling stock regulate the rates for passengers and freight, and require such changes in the operation or management of the roads as it may deem necessary for the security and accommodation of the public Yet with these extraordinary powers the New York commission has so far done little beyond ordering the railways to furnish quarterly reports of their condition This is a very commendable and conservative provision, but it is significant that the opposition of the corporations has already produced a wavering in the commission, and they are showing a marked hesitation in enforcing the one act of regulation which they have ordered

Railway commissions will, of course, depend very much upon the character of the men who are put upon them, and of the political system under which they are constituted If, as seems likely from the experience of California Illinois and New York, the majority of them shall prove unable to resist the powerful influence of the corporations, the public must look to some other means for abolishing the evils which have sprung up under the rapid growth of the railway system

MANITOBA

The great object proposed to be gained by the completion of the Canadian Pacific railroad was similar to that which governed the land grants to the Union Pacific, and that was to prevent the secession of the western section of the country It was felt to be a political as well as a commercial necessity to furnish a connecting link for the diverse Canadian provinces and that without it the provinces of the Red river valley and on the Pacific coast would inevitably gravitate into union with the United States through which they obtained a connection with a market The work was undertaken or rather promised without due consideration of the cost, and now the dominion government finds its resources unequal to the completion of the road, and an angry people to soothe in the province of Manitoba, who are disappointed at the failure, and clamorous for the means to reach a market This province has grown faster than any other part of Canada. About a decade ago the population was only about 1200, now it is nearly, if not quite 50,000, and there is a prospect that the province will continue to grow in population and wealth But they complain that they are onerously taxed by the dominion and receive from the government very little in return. They have petitioned and remonstrated, but to no purpose, and are now strongly inclined to secede from the dominion, and establish at least a commercial union with the United States An attempt has been made to allay this feeling by offering the scheme for a railroad to Hudson's Bay, thus furnishing a summer port more convenient to Liverpool than New York. But the fact that Hudson's Bay is open to navigation only about three months in the year would make it impossible to sustain the railroad from its business, and consequently if built, it would add still more to the burdens of the people As the transcontinental line through the wilderness separating Ontario from Manitoba is at present impossible, there is a poor prospect of holding the provinces together Manitoba seems destined to be the first of the provinces to drift into political as well as commercial union with the United States

PERNICIOUS LITERATURE.

Much is said, and justly, against cheap and worthless publications of the "dime novel" order There is no doubt that most of these productions are in some degree pernicious, many of them highly so; but it is difficult to see how this "flash literature" can be suppressed by law, so long as it does not transgress the bounds of decency. So long as it is merely trashy and not obscene, what can be done with it? It can be suppressed only by watching over the young and cultivating their minds and tastes so that they will not read it.

Here, however, is a most inviting field for parental authority and moral effort That the difficulties of legislating on the subject are so numerous and formidable constitutes no reason why the conservators of good morals should abandon all hope of staying the tide of pollution There are prints and publications so obscene that their exhibition and sale are indictable offenses, and anything which tends to corrupt the public morals could be suppressed at common law. The trashy stuff in the shape of "stories," so plentifully supplied to boys and girls, is bad enough, but this is not the worst form of literature by any means The society, should it be organized, can afford to pass the "yellow covered" books for the present as it will find enough to do, from all accounts, in dealing with those publications which are palpably and notoriously unlawful Touching the right to copyright news the Providence Journal puts the main argument in its favor in a few words when it says that news, acquired by purchase and labor, is as much a matter of property as goods in a store, and is entitled to the same protection against theft It is not pretended that it comes under the provisions of copyright, like the authorship of original matter but it is entitled to protection against theft until its rewards are realized by those who are justly entitled to them. There are newspapers which mainly live by this sort of theft, the cheapness of stealing enabling them to undersell their rivals, which pay money for news, and a statute of the kind proposed by Senator Sherman would compel their owners to adopt honester methods or seek some other occupation, by which the public and the profession of journalism would be greatly benefited "

The English police have blundered badly in dealing with secret conspiracies. It ought not to be difficult to secure the arrest of such imbeciles in crime as the dynamite conspirators Neighboring countries of course ought not to afford an asylum for such outcasts of humanity, but the most efficient protection must be from the English police, and the present trouble results as much from the weakness of Scotland Yard as from the shelter which the conspirators enjoy in New York and Paris. Let the English police watch the ports and examine the baggage of suspicious passengers, instead of asking foreign governments to do detective work for them.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT

The attention of the press of the country has been drawn to a bill introduced in the house of representatives by Mr Dorsheimer of New York to provide for international copyright THE OREGONIAN is favored with a printed argument for it by the author of the bill and also an answer thereto by Henry C Lea of Philadelphia The subject is one upon which the United States and Great Britain have been talking and trying to legislate for fifty years Possibly no settlement that will ever be made will prove satisfactory to all concerned So far the only books published out of which there has been an equitable distribution of profits is the International Scientific Series in which there was mutual agreement by publishers and no law at all The arrangement by which these books were printed cannot be had in all publications hence the attempt of the "Authors League" representing some four hundred writers to have a bill passed protecting them That a writer is entitled to the product of his labor and brains no one doubts and the law of the land gives him abundant exclusive right to his possession for a term of years This is a monopoly which can be justified as it affords an incentive to produce literature and advance the arts and sciences This international copyright however is an extension of this monopoly which we would do well to think about seriously before passing it in haste If only the author's interests were to be consulted the Dorsheimer bill giving to foreign writers the benefit of our copyright law if their claims are filed with us within a year after publication, the matter would be an easy one But the millions of readers in America must be consulted and also the bookmakers Here the argument of Mr Lea comes in This gentleman, for forty years publisher and author, has written an open letter in which he points out that the Dorsheimer bill would work an injury to authors themselves as well as to the publisher and great reading public As the English publisher invariably buys the copyright from the author if protected by our copyright law, such publisher would and could supply the American market at his own price To show the effect of this, we simply quote Mr Lea's list of certain books, giving the English and American prices

	English price	American price
Green's History of the English People	$16 00	20 cents
Green's Making of England	4 00	20 "
McCarthy's History of Our Own Times	12 00	40 "
Memoirs of Prince Metternich	38 00	80 "
Froude's Life of Carlyle	8 00	20
Conybeare and Howson's St Paul	7 50	4 "
Farrar's Life of Christ	9 00	20 "
Geikie's Life and Words of Christ	7 50	40

The bill will be of no benefit to the American author, because he can already take the advantage of the English law by the first publication in England Nor will the bill be of advantage to the English author, for it simply leaves him in the hands of the publisher who as we have said will supply the American market at his own prices This brings us to the effect the bill will have upon the mechanical making of a book—the type setting, stereo typing, etc Upon this Mr Lea says

> If the question concerned only the profits of some twenty or thirty publishing houses congress might well afford to neglect it but the tens of thousands of men and women whose livelihood depends upon the prosperity of the trades of paper making, printing and book binding and their related industries have a claim for thoughtful consideration which the national legislature will not lightly set aside as of no moment It is self evident that the transfer to England of so large a portion of our book manufacture as is employed on the reproduction of English books cannot but have a disastrous influence on all those industries depriving of work a large number of operatives and reducing the wages of those who can still find employment

Lastly speaking for the great reading public which increases year by year and the effect which the bill will have in giving England a monopoly of the book trade and the fixing of prices for English publications, Mr Lea says

> The substitution of monopoly for competition and the absolute control of the business thereby given to the English publishing houses would work a revolution the extent of which no one not practically acquainted with the subject is likely to realize in advance In England, new books are the luxury of the rich in the United States they are a necessity with all classes General education at the expense of the public has made us a nation of readers long habit has accustomed us to low prices for books strong competition and the necessity of catering to the wants of a wide circle of readers in moderate circumstances have led to forms and methods of publication which bring the master pieces of literature within the means of all Take away that competition, and the resultant increase of price will not be merely the sum paid to the author but in addition the utmost profit which the holder of the copy right can exact without destroying his market and he will naturally prefer a small circulation at a heavy price to a large sale at an almost infinitesimal percentage as at present

When we take into consideration then the interests at stake we find how difficult is the matter of framing a copyright law which will do justice to writers and the reading public

So much is said in the news reports about the German reichstag that American readers may be interested in knowing that that body consists of 397 members Of these Prussia elects 236, and the twenty-five other states elect 161. The liberal factions if united would have a majority, and it was believed some months ago that a basis of agreement had been reached But so far only the liberal unionists or secessionists and the forty seven progressists under Richter have come together These make up about one fourth of the parliament. As it stands, the center, taking in the remnants of the old national liberal party and the clericals, holds the balance of power The new liberal party, with about 100 members, is on one side, and the 76 conservatives on the other, the three groups, right center and left taking in 283 members Independent of these are the democrats populists social democrats, Alsace Lorrainers Poles and Danes

Fame nowadays depends in many instances upon conditions once unknown At the last meeting of the Boston Unitarian club Professor Peabody of the Harvard divinity school, read an essay and at the close regretted the inability of Professor Charles Eliot Norton to attend. "I regret the absence the more," he said, "because I had great curiosity to know how he would be introduced by your president Early in his career he was known as the son of his distinguished father; later, as the distinguished scholar and authority on art, but a few weeks ago, when he visited New York, a prominent paper there announced his presence by stating that Professor Charles Eliot Norton, father of the champion bicyclist, Mr Eliot Norton, was in town You see, gentlemen, what eminence awaits you in your advancing years" The Hon John L Sullivan may be president of Harvard university yet, by the new process of election by the undergraduates

A summary of the first year's operation of the new law taxing corporations in Vermont shows that the state derives a total revenue from this source of about $200,000. The net result, though it falls short of realizing the brilliant expectations held out by the enthusiastic advocates of the scheme, is on the whole highly satisfactory, and abundantly vindicates the principle of the law In previous years the corportions (the banks excepted) escaped all taxation, practically, and enjoyed the franchises given them by the state without making any return therefor. Now they are subject to a taxation which is just in itself, and the fruit of which will lift an appreciable burden from the shoulders of individual taxpayers.

The haste with which democratic leaders at Washington are moving for a constitutional amendment to guard their party against revival of the fiat money or greenback craze is significant It is an open avowal of fear that the recent decision of the supreme court asserting the constitutionality of the greenback, will be a vindication of the leadership of Ben Butler in the estimation of the greenbackers and soft-money democrats, and possibly revive his expiring prospects for the presidency General Butler was in the case and contended that the government has the right to issue and reissue greenbacks in any quantity that congress may authorize, without regard to war or any other national exigency congress being the sole judge whether it is expedient or not. The court seems to have taken the Butleristic view of the case and decides it accordingly Butler and all the fiat lunatics contend that it would be better to retire all the national bank circulation and supply its place with legal tender treasury notes no matter whether they are to be redeemed or not As the recent decision turns the whole question over to congress as the sovereign voice of the people the people ought to see to it that a congress and president are chosen that will favor a sound financial policy

A gang of school boys from 12 to 15 years of age styling themselves the Jesse James gang has been discovered at Quincy Mass a rural town of the high est social character and a town which is famous for its public schools It is not possible to believe that the parents of these boys who have been committing burglary had exercised over them proper parental care and oversight The day and Sunday school had doubtless been relied upon, as too often is the case to preserve them from corrupt thoughts The machinery of the church school and state is not sufficient for the proper nurture of children and should never be depended upon to the exclusion of home influence and restraint.

Murat Halstead of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette when in Washington the other day called to see Mr Blaine The latter gave the journalist to understand that he was not in the presidential race "I feel justified in believing" says Mr Halstead, "that Mr Blaine meant every word he said In fact, he aspires to be secretary of state again He would like to answer Bismarck's letter on the Lasker resolutions

CITY.

THE HALIBUT TRADE.—It has long been known that there was plenty of halibut on fishing grounds at the mouth of the Straits of Fuca, and that shipments of these fine fish have been received from time to time. The demand however was not sufficient to justify any one going into the business of catching and shipping them here as a venture. This spring some parties have embarked in the business, and appear to think they have struck a bonanza, as there are plenty of fish and there seem to oppose an unlimited demand for them. A short time ago half a ton of halibut was received here and found a ready sale. Yesterday a lot was sent in, a pretty liberal supply for a market of this size, but as the smell are gone and the halibut were the halibut went off like hot cakes. Seventeen pounds for two bits and the greater part of the shipment was disposed of last night. Of the shipment will very well so far, but with the fish came the announcement that the price of the next lot would be higher, as here was such a demand for the fish around. And this is just where the fisher men are likely to be left. They cannot possibly find customers for a ton of fresh halibut at one time on the market, and people here will not care to pay any more than fair prices for them. By the time the next lot is received, fine Chinook salmon will about be in market, and there will not be so much demand for halibut. The fishermen must remember that Portland is not a very large city, and should be content to make smaller shipments and moderate prices.

CHINESE FARMING.—It is seldom that Chinamen engage in farming on an extensive scale here, but they are largely engaged in garden farming in the vicinity of this city, and are very successful in supplying not only their own countrymen here but the whites with a great many vegetables. One of the heathens however has determined to farm on a rather large scale, and has leased of J. Hallett 300 acres of arable land, situated near Forest Grove. He has purchased eight span of mules, and has four men of his own race employed. He will put in 160 acres of potatoes, forty acres of onions, some wheat, etc. There is considerable beaver dam land on the place, and he probably a large crop of onions will be raised, and may make a small fortune in them and potatoes. A lot of onions, for which $500 had been offered, was sold in this city not very long ago. The greater part of them rotted and judging the question of Chinese cookery were used to be forced in. Things go a little rough with him at his new venture, as a pair of his horses ran away and threw him out of his wagon and eroded his forehead as well. He says he has lost [illegible] a heap of money already, but will get it all back by-and-by. As he is understood to be buying on credit his definition of investment may be far out of the way. No one wishes John ill, but hopes he will be prosperity, but after he has been under the harrow and a thrasher and marketed his crop, he will have a better knowledge of Oregon farming than he has now.

THE FISH MARKET FLAT.—Quite a large number of shipments of salmon and salmon trout have been made by different parties here within the last week or two to St. Paul, Chicago and New York. Most of the earlier shipments gave profitable returns, but the business appears to have been overdone, and the last shipment have tired of it. He has a dispatch from New York was received here yesterday stating that the former were [illegible] and the latter at about [illegible] cents per pound. The salmon trout referred to are the fish caught at Oregon City, weighing eight to ten pounds, and which are commonly called salmon. Such shipments will put a stop to any further shipments of them. There will probably be some Chinook salmon shipped when the salmon season commences, but it is thought that the trade will not amount to much at present. The bulk of the fish are sent from down the Columbia, and as it will be some time before they can be placed in the refrigerator cars it will be hardly possible to handle them with profit after the warm weather sets in. Nothing may be done in shipping them during the summer, but that it will be a risky business.

MORTGAGE BONDS.—There was filed in the office of the county clerk yesterday a mortgage given by the Southern Oregon Improvement Company to the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company to secure the payment of the Improvement company's bonds to the extent of $2,000,000, which amount is to be used in the bonds on the 1st of January last, to run until the year 1914, with interest at 6 per cent per annum payable semi annually. The bonds were at once taken by the Boston company. They are convertible into stock of the Improvement company at the will of the holder. The mortgage covers all property that the improvement company now owns or hereafter may possess in any part of this state or Washington territory until the bonds are paid. The money thus obtained from the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Company is to be used in the improvement of Coos bay harbor for building a railroad, and its locality, for developing the extensive coal mines of the company and for the running of steamships along the coast and into the navigable [illegible].

DISMISSED.—In the case of Mrs. Minnie Heinrich vs. the Pullman Palace Car Company in the United States circuit court yesterday, the plaintiff's attorney moved for a dismissal and Judge Deady so ordered. Mrs. Heinrich was shot in the thigh by a ball from a revolver which a porter of the Pullman company let fall in a car in which she was riding on the Northern Pacific railroad. She alleges that the accident was caused by the carelessness of the porter and that the company should be responsible for the acts of its servants. The suit was dismissed because the plaintiff is obliged to return east. The suit will, however, be renewed in the United States court in another state.

GONE INTO THE FREIGHTING BUSINESS.—An enterprising young man who left here a few days ago for the Coeur d'Alene mines, writes back to a friend, from Thompson Falls. He says he is all ready to start for Eagle City. He has given up mining for the present and gone into the freighting business. With a toboggan which he has loaded 110 pounds he proposes to ship dry goods at the rate of 25 cents a pound. As the round trip can be made in four days there is money in the venture, coupled with some danger and hardship, as the young man will find when he crosses a stretch of a mile or so in extent where the wind has blown the snow off. However this will be compensated for by the fun of sliding down hill on the way back.

A PROPOSED BALL.—Recently Oregon Commandery No. 1, Knights Templar decided to give a ball, the first since the commandery was organized. Not being in need of funds, and desiring that the proceeds go to some worthy institution of charity, it was decided to tender the receipts to the Ladies' Relief Society for the benefit of the Children's Home, provided the society would accept the same. At a meeting of the society was held yesterday afternoon, at which Mr. F. B. Malcolm, on behalf of the commandery, formally tendered the offer which was thankfully accepted. The affair will be given at Mechanics' pavilion, Thursday, May 1, and is looked forward to as a great social event as well as a benefit for the financial benefit is not to be despised.

SPRING PLANTS.—One of the visible signs of the approach of spring is the plants for bedding from the florists' gardens, on sale in many places. Most common are geraniums of many varieties, fuchsias, pansies, etc. Cabbage plants and tomato plants are also on sale, and, notwithstanding that the weather has been somewhat wintry, find purchasers. The tomato is a tender plant and requires warm weather, and unless great care is exercised they will not survive being set out so early in the spring.

LARCENY CASES DISMISSED.—A number of larceny cases have been up for investigation by the grand jury for the last day or two. Yesterday morning the charges against James Brady, Charles Collins and F. McPherson each of whom was accused of stealing sums of money, etc., as before the police court, the grand jury rendered no true bills, and the accused were discharged from confinement in the county jail.

FORMER RESIDENTS WITH OREGON.—J. M. Burrell and J. Lenhman started back to Sanborn, Dakota, yesterday. They expressed themselves so thoroughly satisfied that they intend to be here again to induce others to do likewise. The druids [illegible] their capital and will invest more or less [illegible] enterprises, and that is what is wanted hereabouts.

INDICTED.—Paddy McCann, the rough who was arrested on day before yesterday after a disturbance, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury. Two separate charges are made against him of assault on persons with a danger as a weapon. This [illegible] of crime and McCann's [illegible] is sufficient to send him there for a [illegible].

SOLD ON EXECUTION.—The property owned by [illegible] on First street between Alder and Morrison, [illegible] by a restaurant, a cigar store and a [illegible], was seized by the sheriff upon an execution issued in the state circuit court, and will be sold at public sale to satisfy a judgment obtained by [illegible] by E. S. Kearney for the sum of [illegible].

THE REPORT.—An excellent programme has been arranged and will be published in full tomorrow morning for the annual meeting of the Humane society, to take place to-morrow night. The speakers by the prizes is Mrs. Ella Hughes, [illegible] T. Eliot, and Rev. T. H. Marvin, and [illegible] will be made at the same time.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.—Thomas Sheridan, charged with the crime of the murder of William [illegible] in this city, a few weeks since who was arraigned in the state circuit court before Judge Smith yesterday morning, and pleaded not guilty to the charge. The time will be soon set for trial. Testimony against the prisoner is very strong.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

CONSIDERABLE ROUTINE BUSINESS TRANSACTED LAST NIGHT.

Bids for Street Cleaning by Contract Invited—Establishing Grades for New Streets—Steam Tender for the Dredge

The city council met in regular session last night, Mayor Chapman in the chair and all members present. Following is an epitome of the business transacted:

POLICE APPOINTMENTS

The mayor submitted communications appointing James I. Adkins and G. M. Ryan regular policemen, both referred to committee on health and police.

PETITIONS, ETC

From W. J. Hawkins asking for $12 due from the city; referred to the committee on health and police.

From J. Ho Fiston asking that one month's whisky license be refunded; same reference.

From Hon. M. C. George acknowledging receipt of copy of resolutions adopted by the council Feb. 11 in opposition to forfeiture of Northern Pacific land grant. It stated he had presented them to the house and had them referred to the proper committee; placed on file.

From senator Slater and Dolph making the same acknowledgment; placed on file.

From J. A. Hogue calling attention to double assessment, and asking that one be stricken from the tax roll; granted.

From J. S. Walker and H. A. Hogue protesting against construction of sewer in Vine street from Ninth to Tenth streets; referred to the committee on streets.

From Joseph R. Bailey, asking that assessment of $[illegible] against him for notes and other evidences of debt be expunged. The petitioner claims that it is a double assessment, because stock of the Willamette Steam mills, the Oregon Transfer Company and the Oregon Real Estate Company already pays tax on what is represented by his indebtedness; referred to committee on ways and means.

From J. H. Roach asking refunding of $18 tax paid on lot 11 block 19 Couch's addition; granted.

From M. Tierney and others asking the grade of Jefferson street west of Twelfth be changed; referred to committee on streets.

From the company of Harder [illegible] block on the south side of Morrison street between Third and Fourth, asking that the contractors on the new block immediately east of them be required to make a clear sidewalk. Prayer granted and the street superintendent instructed to require the contractors to maintain the desired sidewalk.

From Howell, Bolst & Co., asking permission to use one or two acres in the city park as a flower garden for not less than five nor more than ten years. They propose to erect a green house which they will give to the city at the expiration of the lease and will act as superintendent of the park free of charge; referred to committee on streets.

From Susan Coyne and others remonstrating against the proposed improvement of West Park street from Harrison to College; same reference.

From Thomas Mann remonstrating against the improvement of Grant street from Front to Fourth; granted.

REPORTS

From the committee on ways and means recommending that the petition of Robert Oleghorn with regard to taxes be not granted; adopted.

From the same committee, recommending that indebtedness of Lewis Love be allowed; granted.

From the same committee, recommending that the claim of the Portland Library Association for rebate on taxes be allowed; adopted.

From the committee on streets, reporting back the ordinance relating to controlling the standing of hacks on certain streets, with slight amendments; adopted.

From the same committee recommending adoption of city surveyor's report in the extension of Thirteenth street; adopted.

From the same committee, recommending passage of the ordinance inviting proposals for street cleaning and sprinkling with an amendment that in case a contract is let the contractor shall buy from the city its horses, carts, etc., at the cost price; passed.

From the committee on landings and wharves recommending passage of ordinance changing the wharf line.

From the committee on health and police, recommending the bill of J. J. Kennedy for $15 7c, hanging fire since July, 1880, be paid; adopted.

From the same committee, recommending that the liquor license of W. Pappenfuss for two months be refunded; adopted.

From the city surveyor in the proposed extension of T. street North Twenty-first street and the lateral extension of B. street, referred to committee on streets.

AGAIN ASSAULTED HIS WIFE.—Old Larry Nevilles, better known as "Larry the Nailer," was tried before Justice Keegan yesterday upon a charge of having assaulted and beaten his wife. The latter appeared in court with her face fearfully contused and swollen, and was sufficient evidence against her brute of a husband. He was sentenced to confinement in the county jail for twelve days, a punishment not sufficient for such brutality as that of which he has been guilty. This is the third time that he has beaten his wife almost to death, and no sooner had he arrived at the county jail than he began to brag about it. Jailer Dougherty told him he should be ashamed of himself, whereupon he began a torrent of abuse that might not have been stopped yet had he not suddenly found himself flat on the floor. Of course he showed fight, but it took less than one minute to convince him of the difference between attacking a defenseless woman and the brawny jailer of Multnomah county. When he was lifted up he walked to his cell as meek as a lamb and did not even ask for the favor of the freedom of the corridor.

REV. J. Q. A. HENRY'S ACCEPTANCE.—At a meeting of the Baptist church a communication on the subject of Rev. J. Q. A. Henry's acceptance of the call was considered. After some discussion of the matter the terms of the acceptance of the call was agreed to by the church. Mr. Henry will not be here until the first of June next. As Mr. Harl[illegible]'s term has expired and the temporary arrangement, the question of procuring temporary pulpit supplies was discussed, and finally it was decided to suspend the public services until the arrival of the new pastor, except the Sunday school and prayer meeting, making special effort to make them interesting and well attended.

A GOOD MOVE.—Very commendable was the action of the city council last night in instructing the superintendent of streets to require the contractors on the new brick block at the southwest corner of Third and Morrison streets to maintain a clear sidewalk. It is an old precedent and ought to be steadily followed. Within every reasonable limit should be given to builders the rights of the public merit equal consideration.

DECISIONS TO BE ANNOUNCED.—In the state circuit court this morning Judge Smith will announce decisions in the following cases: Wells et al. vs. Neff et al., upon the motion to strike out parts of the reply. Couch vs. National bank, upon the motion to strike out complaint, and Read vs. Ford, upon the motion to strike out the complaint.

RELIGIOUS MEETING.—The third religious meeting for social worship and [illegible] preceding Easter, in the Unitarian chapel will take place this evening. The theme is: "Aids in the formation of character."

BRIEF MENTION.

An important business meeting will be held at the Congregational church this evening. It is earnestly requested that all the members be present.

J. P. Howe, acting manager of New Market theater, and Sam Myers, the manager of Emerson's minstrels, go to Astoria on to-morrow's boat, to meet the company. They play at Astoria Saturday night and take a rest in that city over Sunday.

Al James, the fellow arrested some time since for complicity in the Adams robbery in Sam Neville's saloon, and who was discharged by the grand jury, has managed to get back into the county jail, this time to serve out a fine imposed by Justice Davis for assault and battery.

A boy fell off the platform of one of the Fifteenth street cars last evening, and one of the wheels passed over his heel, crushing it badly. It is a wonder that such accidents are not more frequent, as many boys are in the habit of jumping on and off street cars when they are in motion just for the fun of the thing.

THE CHROMO CLAIMED.

PORTLAND, March 19, 1884

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As I do not find any solution to Enquirer's problem as to cost of high school building in this morning's OREGONIAN, I beg leave to hand you my figures.

The original estimate was $7[illegible] 000 and after spending $84,17[illegible], [illegible] estimate [illegible] $60,000. This supplementary estimate is to cover an original estimate of $70,423 [illegible]. Hence the question is: If $20,423 [illegible] requires $60,000, what will $[illegible] require? Therefore

08 3 [illegible] 60 000 [illegible] 216 100 [illegible]

The cost to complete will be $216,100 [illegible]

NOT USELESS SLAUGHTER.

SANDY, March 8

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A paragraph appeared in THE OREGONIAN a few days since, in regard to the slaughter of elk by one Hodge, which is calculated to do him an injustice. Mr. Hodge lives on Cougar mountain close to the line of Multnomah county. In which county he killed the elk is of no consequence. I happen to know that not a pound of that meat was wasted. You cannot easily enforce a law which the people feel to be unjust. The brave settlers of Cougar mountain are struggling with poverty and many of them destitute. They carry bacon to their families eight miles. Even panther meat is eaten without waste. They disapprove of useless slaughter as much as you do. Law is one thing, justice is another.

INDIGNANT POLICEMEN.

THEY ASK THE COUNCIL FOR PROTECTION

The Deputy Chief's Report of his Outrage upon Policeman Johnson and his Defense of Bill Tennant's Drunkenness—Swift Resigns

Under the head of communications in the city council meeting last night, the deputy chief of police submitted a long report, of which the following is a synopsis:

First—That Policeman Patrick Swift had resigned as a member of the force, and had surrendered his star, no reason given.

Second—The deputy chief acknowledged that he ordered the suspension of Policeman Johnson without just cause. After he knew that neither the police judge nor a justice of the peace would entertain a charge of that against the officer he took the [illegible] and [illegible] Tennant and [illegible] Johnson. He soon learned to his mistake that the charge was utterly without foundation and restored Johnson to his place.

Fourth—He did not deny whether Tennant was or was drunk at the night of March 7, as reported. [illegible] He acknowledges that he may not remember [illegible] but he and [illegible] is an excellent and an efficient officer. [illegible] Tennant's regard as the statements (not in affidavits) [illegible] persons, [illegible] Ledder and Walter Keye, to the effect that they had known him for years and had never seen him drunk and that he was not drunk on the night in question. The deputy chief would not hand to the city jail that night and took away his star, making no statement of his own relative to Tennant's condition at that time.

The report of Frank [illegible] Sears moved that it be referred to the committee on health and police, and the judiciary.

The chief of police in his report accounted from the first word as there was nothing to refer, no suspension or anything else.

Sears at once [illegible] that there was at least their communication on the subject and although [illegible] it would be [illegible].

Sears' motion prevailed.

The clerk then read a communication from P. Hennessy, J. [illegible] stating that his suspension was unjust, his character and destiny that the council should take such action as they saw proper.

INDIGNANT POLICEMEN

The following communication was then read:

To the Honorable, the Mayor and Members of the Common Council, Gentlemen: We the undersigned, members of the police force of the city of Portland, respectfully represent that our brother officer Alexander Johnson was on the 9th day of March 1884 deprived of his star upon a charge of [illegible] of a watch made by the chief of police, and inasmuch as the whole force has reason to feel that it is but an indignity heaped upon it, and that it has suffered in the public esteem we therefore humbly request your honorable body to investigate the cause of the temporary suspension of said Alexander Johnson to the end that justice may be done him and that other members of the police force may not be subject to similar and unjust degradation in the eyes of the public.

Both communications were referred to the same committee consisting of Gardner, Sears and Ahrens and Adams, Chittenden and Bales.

THE TWO NEW APPOINTEES

When the mayor appointed James H. Wilkinson and G. M. Ryan as policemen early in the evening the councilmen asked each other who they were. Who are they anyhow? No one seemed to be able to answer. After adjournment an OREGONIAN reporter made inquiry and learned that Morgan is an engineer by occupation and has worked several years for Councilman Smith who vouches for him as a first class steady sober man. Wilkinson has been a truck driver for the O. T. Company and is well spoken of.

THE FINDLAYSON MURDER.

Second Day of the Trial of Charles B. Findlayson for the Murder of His Grandmother near Albany

(FROM THE OREGONIAN'S LOCAL CORRESPONDENT)

ALBANY, March 19

The trial of young Findlayson continues to attract large crowds, and much interest is evinced in it as it progresses.

Dr. J. L. Hill testified as follows: Am practicing physician; was not acquainted with Mrs. Findlayson; was called to make post mortem examination of deceased; found 35 wounds on body; 17 under arm several to bone, none necessarily fatal; those on neck were not fatal; blow by ax was from ear up at [illegible]; thin wounds of body, except by ax, were made while deceased was standing; hemorrhage would follow immediately after such blow as that made by an ax; suppose deceased weighed about 130 pounds; did not take ax in wound, but saw it done by them; think deceased was lying on floor 2½ or 3 feet from wall and blow with ax was given while she was lying; wound on head was before the [illegible] were put in body; think from circumstances that blow on head was given while body was lying on floor; think deceased could not walk after blow was struck; saw ax and knife there in [illegible] were shown witness in room; think these are the same; person might faint when receiving such wounds as made with knife; probed the knife wounds and think I found bottom of each.

Dr. E. L. Irvine testified as follows: Am practicing physician; live in Lebanon; was present at post mortem examination of deceased; found twenty six knife wounds on body; those on face and body were to the bone; ribs in locality of wounds were close together.

Cross-examination—Wound or skull ranges from ear forward and upward; saw Dr. Hill probe the wound on head; I think the wound would cause instant death; think one could not walk after receiving such blow; hemorrhage would take place immediately.

George Humphrey testified as follows: Am sheriff of Linn county; arrested defendant in Umatilla county in this state about 1[illegible] miles from Pendleton; arrested him November 13 at 6 o'clock A. M.; found him in bed; told him to get up; he said his name was Frank Nelson; had some talk with him about the crime; his statements were told me under promise of secrecy; he said his grandma hit him with a stick of wood, and he began to cut her with a knife and they struggled to the bedroom; said she asked him for water after they got to bedroom.

Mr. Daglish testified as follows: Reside in Portland; have known defendant since he went to live with my sister, Mrs. Findlayson; had conversation with defendant after he was arrested at jail in Portland; he said when his grandfather went away he told him to plow, that he said he was sick, his grandmother told him he was lazy; they began quarreling and she struck him with a stick and he struck her with an ax.

O. H. Irvine testified as follows: Am a law student; had talk with defendant on way from Portland while he was in custody of the sheriff. (This witness corroborated former witness as to confession of the crime.)

Robert Foster testified as follows: Am a farmer; live five miles south of Albany; have known defendant since he was five years old; went to Mr. Findlayson's after he found his wife murdered; examined house for blood; found no blood in kitchen; found murdered woman in kitchen about twenty-five feet from kitchen; saw blood on door knobs, also on plastering going up stairs.

Cross-examination—Found no blood in kitchen or sitting room; am positive it was blood on door knobs.

Isaac M. Clung testified as follows: Live four miles south of Albany, one and a quarter from Findlayson's; went there between 3 and 4 o'clock the day the murder was discovered; saw blood in bed room, but none in kitchen or sitting room.

Here the prosecution rested.

THE DEFENSE

Mrs. Underwood for the defense testified: Live in Eugene; am acquainted with defendant; knew him when he was a small child; his father and mother are both dead; have not known him much in the last five years.

Thomas Froman testified as follows: Know defendant; have known him since he went to live with his grandfather; he worked for me last summer; he ran away from home and came to my house to help haul straw; he said he did not know why he ran away; said the old folks treated him well; when he returned his grandmother tied up his sore finger; said he ran away to earn some money for himself; nothing strange about his conduct.

Mr. Findlayson, being recalled, testified as follows: My wife often made fires for herself; she split kindling with ax now in evidence; she weighed 130 pounds and was as stout as defendant; not always good to him; Charley had headache often; am not acquainted with Mrs. Boothby; she is sister to my wife; she was at my house on day of funeral; did tell Mrs. Boothby that my wife had complained to me that Charley had attempted to outrage her, but it was twelve months before.

Mr. Crane testified as follows: Reside at Eugene; am not much acquainted with defendant; his sister lives in my family; his father died of consumption.

Mrs. Crane testified as follows: Not much acquainted with defendant; his sister lives with me; she is 11 years old.

Drs. Jones and Whitney were called by defense as experts to testify as to how the wounds on deceased were inflicted, as to whether they were necessarily fatal and as to the position of deceased when the wounds were made.

The defense rested here.

REBUTTAL

O. B. Kirkpatrick testified as follows: Live in Albany; am school teacher; defendant went to school to me three months; he was an average boy in learning; [illegible] him order one half way through Arithmetic; studied United States history and grammar; general deportment was good.

Cross-examination—Went to school one year ago; did well in writing compositions.

Mrs. McCartney testified as follows: Have known defendant four years; always considered him a bright boy; never noticed any peculiarities about him.

Mrs. A. F. Boothby testified as follows: Reside in Salem; am sister of deceased; have known defendant since he was 3 years of age; always thought he was above average in mental faculties; knew nothing strange about him; noticed no peculiarities; he is well advanced in studies.

At 10 o'clock the evidence was all in, and Prosecuting Attorney Holmes opened the argument for the prosecution. He will be followed by W. R. Bilyeu and J. J. Whitney for the defense, afterwards Judge Burnett will close for the state.

THE CONGREGATIONAL "CREED."

PORTLAND, March 19.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Will you permit space to remove a false impression that may arise from the communication of the Rev. Frederic R. Marvin, M. D., acting pastor of the First Congregational church of this city, appearing in your issue of the 13th inst., regarding the position of the "minority" towards the creed of the church. The doctor says: "It is true that most Congregational churches have creeds. The First Congregational church of this city has one. The people are deeply attached to it, as will appear from the failure of a motion to abolish it, made by one of the leaders of the minority at a recent church meeting. The motion was opposed to the motion, and openly stated so."

The meeting referred to was held on the evening of the [illegible], an extended account of which appeared in your issue of the next day. The motion of which the doctor speaks was made by me and under the following circumstances: That gentleman had presented in writing the conditions on which he would withdraw his letter of resignation of the acting pastorate of the church. The conditions were in brief, that assent to creeds shall not be a condition of membership. As that was most that the conditions be accepted. All [illegible] the reverend gentleman had [illegible] that he could not [illegible] conditions presented [illegible] I moved to amend the pending motion by adding "and that all [illegible] of the [illegible] be abolished." [illegible] the motion at the same time I stated as the reason for my amendment that in my judgment if the original motion prevailed it would have the effect to practically abolish the church creed, and that if the church proposed to do so I had better do it directly than in this indirect manner, that, if [illegible] not propose to do so, I would be able to do [illegible] directly that which it would not do directly and that it was far better to be honest in this matter and abolish the creed than to have one stand in the books of the church, but practically a dead letter. My amendment for the purpose of placing the result of the acceptance of the [illegible] in [illegible] the light [illegible] at a [illegible] it [illegible] I believe [illegible] still a correct with the creed.

E. B. NORTHUP

Still Another Communication.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Will you permit me to address a few words through your columns to the minority in the "Congregational church muddle." I would venture to inquire if it is really one of the fundamental principles of Congregationalism that the minority should rule in discipline? Do you of the minority actually believe the course pursued to be the promptings of a kindness of Christian meekness of duty? Do you suppose the meek and lowly Jesus had been at the first meeting as the complaining witness and been asked to state his reasons for objecting to the course of the minister, he should have declined because he did not know or would he not have acknowledged as a fact that the accused had a right to hear all charges? Had he believed the reasons given from the pulpit were "too liberal" is it possible that he would have hesitated to say so? Then after having the matter to the church, and that church had by an overwhelming majority questioned the minister do you suppose he would have sought to put himself in a parliamentary to a call? Or do you really think that after attending a second meeting where the minority grew less and less, his ship increased, he would have called a third meeting simply to file a protest, and then that the minority have sought to still further justify his course, by endeavoring to make all the other meetings illegal, notwithstanding the fact that he had participated in them just as earnestly just as persistently as any one else or is it not more reasonable to suppose that after matters had reached this point he would have quietly withdrawn from the church?

Now you may say the question is one of creed. Yes the same old story in olden times they crammed creeds down the throats of thinking men or burned them at the stake, while the ignorant masses applauded it without a question. Now however, the world is enlightened and none will deny that creeds in human. The see this picture. Two men are presented to the church for admission, they are equally bright, equally sincere in their desire to follow true, pure, humble Christian lives. They both accept the [illegible] from Genesis to Revelations. One accepts the creed because he believes it with the other rejects the same because it is in conflict with what he believes to be the true teachings of the scriptures. Is it possible that the minority would say to one, you accept our creed and practice it and you can go to heaven, and to the other you can reject our creed and go to hell?

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 20, 1884.

THE EAST SIDE.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE.

The public meeting under the auspices of Pioneer Division No. 1, Sons of Temperance, at the Baptist mission school house Tuesday evening, was successful in every respect. A mistake, however, that the evening paper made in locating the place of meeting at Good Templars' hall, somewhat lessened the attendance and disappointed many. Professor Chaney discoursed at length upon the action of alcohol upon the human system, and the interest taken in his lecture caused a general request for its repetition, to which the professor conceded, and Wednesday evening next was appointed as the time for its delivery. Mrs. Nellie Kendall rendered some favorite temperance songs in her best style. Mr. J. C. Molander imitated the mocking bird to perfection, and sang "The Old Gray Mare" like an artist. Mr. Welty gave a comic reading in capital style, and Mr. G. A. Stanton and others contributed to the evening's enjoyment. Hon. J. F. Caples sent regrets at not being able to be present.

LARGE PURCHASE OF CATTLE.

Fourteen hundred head of cattle, comprising the entire band of Nicholas McCoy, on the lower Yakima, have been purchased by Messrs. [illegible] & Summerville of East Portland and will be transferred to their ranch in that section.

NOTES.

The editors of the Democratic Era are understood to be Knott and Jones.

Mr. S. M. Cooper (Goldsmith & Cooper) and bride leave San Francisco per steamer for home today.

Mr. G. V. Dunbar returned yesterday from a ten days' visit to Ilwaco, as brown as a berry and minus the malaria which he went to eradicate.

At the meeting of the Athletes Tuesday evening, Mr. Wm. Gladding was elected leader. The club is now thoroughly organized, with good apparatus, and take regular exercise.

The taking of testimony for plaintiff, in the Holladay avenue injunction suit concluded before R. E. Bybee, referee, on Tuesday. Defense will commence their testimony this morning.

A crowd of hoodlums from Portland attended the skating rink Monday night, and one of the number grossly insulting a lady was soundly punished by her escort, Will McGuire. Served him right.

The regular meeting of Martha Washington Circle, No. 3 D. of L., last evening was attended by large delegations from Circles Nos. 1 and 2 of Portland. No. 3 entertained them in their usual fraternal and vivacious manner.

Three dead dogs adorned the vicinity of Third and J streets last evening, two of them—a coach dog and a hunter—being of a valuable kind. There is an attraction for dogs kept in that neighborhood, and foul play is strongly suspected by the owner of the attraction.

Washington Territory.

An Indian was shot in the month on Saturday night, between Olympia and Tumwater, by some one supposed to be a white man. It is reported that five shots were fired, but only one took effect. No further particulars could be obtained.

Sunday night Ainslie & Freel's saw, planing and shingle mills at Mill Switch, two and a half miles north of Little Falls, was discovered to be on fire. Nothing could be done to save the burning building. The loss is estimated at $5000, and no insurance. The proprietors were at work in the mill until about 10 o'clock that night, and everything about the furnace being hot it is supposed the shavings close by caught fire, which was communicated to the mill structure.

Dave Martin, but sporting under the name of Dave MacInnes, recently skipped from Tacoma and narrowly missed a sojourn to the penitentiary. He became depressed in pocket, hypothecated his team to George Tolle for $200 loaned by the latter, and $200 more advanced on Tolle's security, and soon afterward borrowed the team for a short drive. Instead of coming back to Tacoma he went to Seattle, and from there was driving north when he was intercepted in behalf of Tolle, and made to turn over the team and a bill of sale for it. Tolle good naturedly allowed the absconder to go without prosecution, but he went on foot.

A few days ago a man named Young committed suicide at Snohomish. He was a single man and was living on a ranch, and had doubtless been dead several days, as when the cabin door was opened a sickening stench arose from the dead body. It was a case of deliberate self-destruction. The gun was placed in such a position that the contents could be discharged into his breast, and was fired by means of a string attached to the trigger, which was connected with a spring, worked by the foot. The deceased was about 40 years of age and had been acting strangely for some time, and was, no doubt, insane when he committed the deed.

Saturday, a Mrs. Connors, living near Renton, met with a fearful accident under the following circumstances: Mrs. Connors, who lives at Black river, was returning home from Seattle on the train. When at that point the train stopped, and the conductor was in the act of assisting her to alight from the rear end of the rear car when the engine began backing. Both Mrs. Connors and the conductor were thrown down in front of the moving train. With the greatest difficulty the conductor escaped, and was using his utmost endeavor to pull Mrs. Connors from under the approaching wheel. But he was too late, and one wheel of the car passed over both legs, fracturing one above the knee. The other limb was protected by the fortunate heavy folding of her clothing, which prevented serious injury. Dr. Bagley attended the patient.

PRESS PITH.

Every affliction has its blessing. The man with a wooden leg never knows what it is to have rheumatism in that ankle.—Drovers' Journal.

"Yes," he said, "Louis is a good fellow and I like him. But we shall soon cease to be friends. He is going to hire a house of me."—Boston Post.

Frank James' health has much improved since his imprisonment, and it would seem a humane thing to keep him in jail as long as possible.—Lowell Citizen.

Out of respect to the memory of George Washington, this paper will to-day contain no selections from the writings or sayings of Perkins, Ochiltree, Milbatten or Vennor.—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

"Yes," said Byrnesmonkey, "I wonder why the beautiful girl at the ball last night stood so long talking to Tawmus, while all the boys envied him. But I found out. He had his shirt front polished so that it was like a mirror, and while she stood talking to him she could look at her reflection. Clever fellow, Tawmus."—Boston Post.

First citizen: "I understand that Minister Morgan has joined the great majority." Second citizen: "You don't say so? When did he die?" First citizen: "I did not say that he was dead. He has become a candidate for the presidency."—New York Graphic.

Colored mendacity.—There was a large boiler of scalding water over a fire in the yard, and several black imps playing near it. Suddenly a shrill voice was heard from inside the shanty: "You, George Washington, keep away from dat ar biler. D'rectly you is gwine ter upset de biler and scald yerself to def, and when you is, you'll be de fust one to say, 'Twasn't me, mammy.'"—Texas Siftings.

Most happily our Judd-Manning lawsuit never came off, the matter being amicably settled. When one of the counsel was informed that the case was up, he was asked to inform the referee, and shortly after the following dispatch was heard going over the wire to the lawyer in Ithaca: "Everybody in Berkshire has experienced religion. You are not wanted." Lawyers will please take notice.—Oswego Times.

Mortgage Taxation in Chicago.

Chicago Inter-Ocean.

For two or three years past money has been loaned on real estate security at 5 and 6 per cent. And the interest on deferred payments is also made at 5 or 6 per cent. But the scheme adopted by the county board puts a stop to any more 5 or 6 per cent loans, or renewal of mortgages at cheap rates, because it introduces the double taxation system. The note or lien, and the security pledged for repayment are both to be taxed. If 'A' loans 'B' $10,000 at 6 per cent on his lot for the purpose of building a house on it, the loan will be taxed 5 or 5½ per cent. on one-third of its face, or about 2 per cent. on its amount, which would be $200 a year, and the house which the borrowed money builds will also be taxed about $200 a year. If B sells a piece of property to D for, say, $5000 on time payments, he will be taxed about $100 on the notes he takes, and the lot itself will pay another $100; thus on all transactions involving credit, the inequitable and oppressive principle of double taxation will be introduced in practice for the first time in this county. Creditors hereafter are to be fined 2 per cent. a year on the amount of all credits extended to borrowers, and also on all credits heretofore made back to the date of the transaction. This is the scheme the board has adopted for the benefit of the borrowing classes! If the lender pays the 2 per cent. tax on the face of the loan he will have 3 or 4 per cent. left for the use of his money. If that is all he can get in Cook county he will take his funds elsewhere for investment. But if the capitalist insists on a net interest of 5 or 6 per cent. he will add the tax and demand and exact 7 or 8 per cent. at least, which the "poor man" must pay or go without the money and forego the building of a house, extension of his factory, or enlargement of capital in his trade. There will be at least 500 such cases in Cook county before the end of this year. This double tax system will confuse all business calculations and inflict heavy loss on the laboring classes by injuring their employers and arresting the use of money in house building and other useful purposes.

The Associated Press and the Telegraph.

St Paul Pioneer-Press.

The recent examination of Mr. William Henry Smith, general manager of the associated press, before the senate subcommittee on postoffices and post roads, indicates how deeply a popular delusion may permeate even committees of the upper house of congress. It seems to be supposed that the associated press, because employing telegraph companies as its channels for news distribution, becomes itself auxiliary to the companies, and controllable thereby. Such a case being granted, the further proposition follows that this great news distributor might be metamorphosed into a news manufacturer on its own or its coadjutors' account, under assumable circumstances; that, for example, if Mr. Gould should happen to control the Western Union Telegraph Company, he would, to that extent, and for the time being, be able to control and shape whatever news the associated press should send over Western Union wires, conformably to whatever stock jobbing scheme he might just then happen to have on hand. The proposition is one entirely outside of any possibilities. The associated press is itself a mere agency. It is an agency for collecting and distributing the news of the world, whatever it happens to be. Its subscribers are newspapers of every political and financial complexion. A "cooking" of news to suit one subscriber would be instantly detected by another, even were an attempt at such cookery in the rush of telegraphic transmission possible; which it clearly is not. The gentlemen of the senate sub-committee may safely cancel out that figment from their profound labors with the newspaper problem. There is not time, space, place, opportunity or agent in the course of an electric circuit charged with sleepless currents of the world's news, to counterfeit or divert. Whatever the terrible Mr. Gould and his horrible corporations may yet do or leave undone, he or they will deliberate some seasons before attempting the physically impossible.

A Democratic Paper's Remark on Another Democratic Paper.

Boston Post.

The New York World has a double leaded shiver over the tariff, about every day, now. If it would only change in, it wouldn't feel half so chilly or be in such imminent danger of getting left.

The Test of Time.—Sixteen years ago the famed silver polish, Electro-Silicon, was first introduced to the public. And by intrinsic merit it has become the recognized standard of the world. See that the full name is on each box.

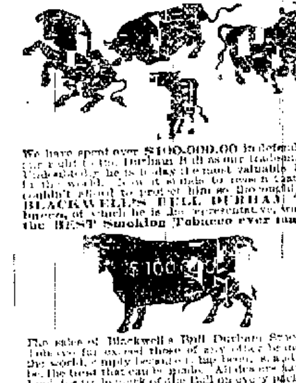
THE GREAT GERMAN REMEDY FOR PAIN.

CURES

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica, Lumbago, Backache, Headache, Toothache, Sore Throat, Swellings, Sprains, Bruises, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, AND ALL OTHER BODILY PAINS AND ACHES.

THE CHARLES A. VOGELER CO. Baltimore, Md., U. S. A.



We have spent over $100,000.00 in defending our right to the Durham Bull as our trademark. Undoubtedly he is to-day the most valuable Bull in the world. If we could not protect him so thoroughly, we couldn't afford to protect him; because BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM Tobacco, of which he is the representative, is the BEST Smoking Tobacco ever made.

The sales of Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco far exceed those of any other brand in the world, simply because it has been, is and will be, the best that can be made. All dealers have it. Look for the trademark of the Bull on every package.

CATARRH

COMPLETE TREATMENT $1.

A single dose of Sanford's Radical Cure instantly relieves the most violent Sneezing or Head Colds, clears the Head as by magic, stops watery discharges from the Nose and Eyes, prevents Ringing Noises in the Head, cures Nervous Headache, and subdues Chills and Fever. In Chronic Catarrh it cleanses the nasal passages of foul mucus, restores the senses of smell, taste and hearing when affected, frees the head, throat and bronchial tubes of offensive matter, sweetens and purifies the breath, stops the cough and arrests the progress of Catarrh towards Consumption.

One bottle Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent and Sanford's Inhaler, all in one package, of all druggists for $1. Ask for SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CO., Boston.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER, and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

POTASH.

[illegible] Potassium is one of the strongest of the mineral poisons [illegible] it dries up the gastric juices, impairs digestion, the stomach refuses food, and the patient declines in health and weight. Persons with Blood or Skin Diseases should be careful how they take these mineral poisons, as in most instances the effect of the potash is to almost permanently impair the constitution. To take the place of these poisons we offer you a safe, sure, prompt and permanent relief from your troubles. Swift's Specific is entirely a vegetable preparation, and it is easy to convince you of its merits.

I have cured permanently Blood Taint in the third generation by the use of Swift's Specific, after I had most signally failed with Mercury and Potash.

F. A. TOOMER, M. D., Perry, Georgia.

A young man requests me to thank you for his cure of Blood Poison by the use of your Specific, after all other treatment had failed.

TRIED HOT SPRINGS TWO LONG YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF.

Mercurial Rheumatism made me a cripple. After trying the springs two years, and the Mercury and Potash treatment until I was a skeleton and unable to do anything, I was prevailed upon to take a course of S. S. S. After taking three bottles, my appetite began to improve, and I gained flesh rapidly. When I had taken twelve bottles I felt as well as I ever did. It is now twelve months since I took S. S. S. My health and appetite are good, and I can attend to all the business I can get.
